RIGHTIST FORCES IN SPAIN MERGING FOR CORPORATIVE STATE

Monarchists Taking Lead in New Movement for Power—Would End Old Carlist-Bourbon Conflict and Create National Non-Partisan Bloc —Proclamation to Be Issued Soon

(Copyright by the Associated Press)

MADRID, Dec. 3.—A combination of Monarchist forces and Extreme Rightists is preparing an unexpected bid for power under a modified "corporative state" plan, it was reliably stated tonight in high Monarchist quarters.

The purpose of the plan, which is to be announced shortly, was described as to give the Spanish Republic "a type of modern corporative state based upon the old Spanish traditional system," ruled by a Rightist united front.

It was denied that the project was related to Fascism, although it is somewhat similar to Fascism in some of its points.

HAS DUAL OBJECTIVE

The scheme has the double objective of terminating the centuries-old Carlist-Bourbon conflict and uniting the Monarchists into one group, and the creation of an ambitious "national non-partisan bloc" under the leadership of former Minister Jose Calvo Sotello, which would admit to membership Monarchists, Extreme Right Republicans, Fascists and any others who wished to join.

Informants of the Associated Press said Sotello would publish a proclamation within a day or so, giving the general outlines of the plan, which will include provisions designed to please the Spanish workers.

VOICE FOR LABOR

Among provisions of Sotello's plan would be a system by which guild and labor organizations would be granted representation as such in the Cortes, or Parliament. Labor organizations naturally are non-partisan in nature, and parties such as the Socialists would be outlawed under the proposed new Spanish regime.

Informants pointed out that the plan was "co-operative rather than corporative," and purely Spanish, being unrelated to Fascist developments.

CANNOT ALTER BRITISH STATUS

Citizenship Bill in Irish Dail Starts New Anglo-Irish Controversy

LONDON, Dec. 3 (CP).—Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, dispatched a note, today, to Eamonn de Valera, President of the Irish Free State, in connection with the Citizenship Bill, now before the Irish Dail.

This step followed the voicing of demands in the House of Commons that the Government lodge a formal protest with the Free State Government over the bill. The bill, about which centres a new Anglo-Irish controversy, is designed to classify natives of the Free State, even though they may not now be resident there, as Free State citizens.

Different interpretations have been placed on the purpose of the bill. Introducing it in the Dail, last week, De Valera said that after it became law "no one in the Free State will be a British subject."

CANNOT LOSE STATUS

But in today's discussion of the question, in the House of Commons, the Secretary for the Dominions said it concerned only Free State citizens and added that no bill could deprive anyone of the status of a British citizen, provided that status was established previously.

The Government here holds that passage of the bill will still leave Free State citizens the choice of being identified outside their country either as British subjects or Free State citizens. Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas told the Commons, today, the British Government long ago had explained its view to the Free State Government on the controversial question of citizenship.

"GIVE A JOB"

OFFICIALS of the Victoria Branch, Employment Service of Canada, have figured out 100 chores that require doing about the average home at Christmas time. There are gardens to be tidied, cellars to be cleaned, paintwork to be washed, floors to be scraped and polished, wood to be cut and stacked, rubble to be burned, storm damage to undo, children to be minded, clothes to be mended, as well as sewing, picture cleaning, and much more besides. A telephone call to Garden 2411, for men; or Empire 1931, for women, will bring reliable help from the bureau.

FLOOD TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Nearly Forty Dead and Millions of Damage Done Round Melbourne

MELBOURNE, Dec. 3 (CP via Reuter's).—The swollen waters of the River Yarra and its tributaries were receding tonight, and in the wake of storm and flood was a death toll of thirty-seven persons, devastation over a wide area, thousands homeless, and property damage of more than $5,000,000.

Three thousand families are already receiving state aid and many others are homeless. An emergency grant of $50,000 has been made to help the victims in Koowerup, in the centre of the afflicted region, while an appeal for relief funds is meeting with warm response. Although the waters are receding, the district, not far from Melbourne, will remain flooded for some days.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS

Two thousand were homeless in Koowerup alone and the township was evacuated. Gippsland was desolated, and planes were dropping food to the marooned victims. When a hospital there was flooded, patients, some in serious condition, were rescued through a hole in the roof, after some women had held babies barely above the angry tide for hours. All services were cut off from Toora.

The waters arose with startling suddenness after a phenomenally heavy rainfall, and residents in the thickly-populated, low-lying areas north and east of Melbourne were forced to the roof tops or trees. The chief property damage was caused by the wind and rainstorm. Seventeen were thought drowned when the coastal steamer Corambe foundered and was washed ashore.

Some of the refugees were assembled in huge camps.

Thousands of sheep, cattle and horses were drowned, and there was a serious menace to public health.

Will Get Cheques In Time to Spend

OTTAWA, Dec. 3 (CP).—The December cheques of war pensioners will be issued on December 20, instead of January 1, according to an announcement, today, by Minister of Pensions D. M. Sutherland. Special authority to give the veterans their monthly remittance in time to enable them to do their Christmas shopping was given by the Government, to the pension department, today.

Australia-Bound Plane Over Ocean On Way to Hawaii

Capt. Charles Ulm and Two Companions Reported Well Out to Sea After Taking Off From Oakland—Must Face Showery Weather Near End of First Lap

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 3 (AP).—Captain Charles T. P. Ulm lifted his trim Australia-bound monoplane toward Honolulu, today, and was speeding tonight across the vast Pacific wastes from which came intermittent flashes of his whereabouts.

At 8 p.m. (Pacific Standard Time) the silver and orange plane passed the Matson liner, Lurline, 500 miles west of the Golden Gate, and roared on in the 2,408-mile flight to Honolulu. The take-off here was at 3:41 p.m. (Pacific Standard Time), making an average speed of about 115 miles per hour to the point where the liner was passed.

MID-SEA GREETING

Powerful searchlights from the liner played across the plane in a mid-sea greeting as Ulm, the pilot; George Littlejohn, co-pilot; and J. L. Skilling, navigator, sped toward Hawaii, first leg of their flight to Sydney, Australia. They are charting the course of a new commercial air venture in their "Star of Australia."

The heavily-laden plane trundled nearly the entire length of the airport runway—about 5,000 feet—before it took to the air. There was 605 gallons of gasoline aboard. Littlejohn was at the controls.

TAKES ADDITIONAL RUN

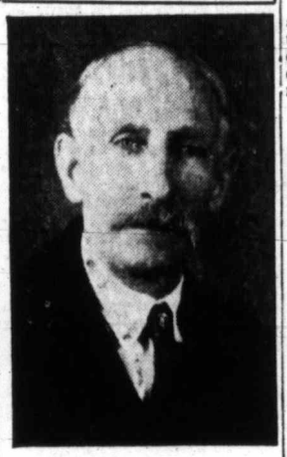

After running perhaps two-thirds of the field, the plane lifted to fifteen or twenty feet, but the load appeared a little difficult and Littlejohn set the ship adroitly back onto the field and turned up the dust for nearly 300 yards before he left the ground definitely.

Six years ago the Australian was co-pilot for Sir Charles Kingsford Smith on the first trans-Pacific flight in history, a 7,400-mile pioneering flash from Oakland to Brisbane, Australia, by way of Hawaii and the Fiji Islands.

Much the same route will be followed on the present flight, with

PARTY COUNCIL FULL OF FATE

Conservatives' Meeting May Block or Ensure Passage of India Bill

LONDON, Dec. 3 (CP).—A fateful meeting of the Central Council of the Conservative Party, opening tomorrow, will virtually decide the future of India, perhaps of the National Government itself.

The party is to choose for or against the plan for self-government with safeguards, as outlined in the report of the joint select Parliamentary committee based on the Government's "white paper" proposals.

Passage of the plan by a comfortable majority, forecast tonight, would virtually ensure passage of the complicated Indian Bill through both Houses of Parliament, with the likelihood of its going into effect on Royal Proclamation perhaps a year hence.

But if the "die-hard" faction prevents the plan's approval, then far-reaching forces would be set in motion, extending to the National Government itself, for Stanley Baldwin and other party leaders who are members of the Cabinet are pledged to the Indian reform scheme.

Dominion Projects Developing in City And Outside Areas

New Drill Hall Mooted at Esquimalt to Cost $60,000—Saanich Work Progressing at Observatory—Warehouse, Wharf and Marine Block Studied

FEDERAL projects in the Greater Victoria area were proceeding steadily yesterday, with considerable work already under way and more pledged as soon as final plans may be completed. Arrangements for construction of a $60,000 drill hall at the Esquimalt Naval Barracks are nearing completion, with some of the land required for the site to be secured from Saanich Municipality and some from private owners, it is understood.

In Saanich yesterday workmen under Federal direction tested the first link in the 2,000-foot waterpipe which will make water available for the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. The pipe is being installed between Wilkinson Road and the Observatory, in a general programme that will cost $20,000. A new concrete pumphouse is to be built nearby, with a pump unit to cost $2,500, the latter to be installed by the Canadian Fairbanks Company. The purpose of the project is to bring water to storage tanks on top of the Observatory hill.

VICTORIA PROPOSALS

While Victoria plans were less far advanced, arrangements are definitely under way for construction of the new hydrographic warehouse on the Songhees Reserve, with adequate wharf accommodation. This is expected to require approximately

British Columbia Growers Win at Big Grain Show

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (CP).—W. G. Gibson, Ladner, B.C., today won the pea championship of the International Hay and Grain Show, with an exhibit of large yellow Stirling variety. William Rogers, of Tappen, B.C., captured first place in the Durum wheat class.

CANADIAN IS WHEAT KING

John B. Allsop, Peace River Farmer, Wins Premier Award at Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (AP).—A new wheat king was crowned, last night, at the Hay and Grain Show, held with the International Livestock Exposition—and again the coveted crown of the North American grain kingdom, rested on the brow of a Canadian, John E. Allsop, of Wembley, Alta.

This victory gave to the Dominion's wheat growers their twelfth wheat championship since 1919.

The reserve champion—the prince of wheat—was L. E. Peterson, of Victori, Montana.

FROM PEACE DISTRICT

Allsop and his entry are from the famed Peace River Valley of Alberta, where most of the wheat grown is of championship calibre. The grand championship in the wheat division was won by his exhibit of a peck of Reward variety grain.

Last year, Frank Isackson, of Elfros, Sask., exhibited the champion wheat.

Since 1928, when C. Edson Smith, of Corvillais, Mont., won his second consecutive wheat crown, the champions have came down from the broad acres of the Dominion's wheat country.

OTHER WINNERS

Canadians also shared top honors in the early judging of beans, H. Graham, of Iron Springs, Alta, exhibited the champion sample of field beans in the navy variety. The reserve title also went north of the border, A. Giffin, of Brooks, Alta., winning the red kidney beans.

H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture for Alberta, present at the exposition, said Allsop was back on his grain farm, 400 miles north of the international border and 350 miles northwest of Edmonton.

RED BANDITS MOVING WEST

Thousands Concentrating on Kweichow—Republic in Kiangsi Near Extinction

HONGKONG, Dec. 4 (AP).—Thousands of so-called "red bandits," the main Communist body of Central China, which had sought to set up a republic within a republic, were concentrating on Kweichow today, between Kweilin and Chuenchow.

Information of the movement clarified an obscure situation in Kwangsi Province which had caused manouvering of American and British gunboats and the virtual evacuation by foreign missionaries of Wuchow, recently reported seriously threatened.

It appeared that the Communist threat against Wuchow was a feint, partly to obtain food and ammunition and partly to cover the passage of the main Communist body into Kweichow. Several scattered parties of reds were left to follow the main body, but it was estimated that two-thirds of the Communist hordes from Kiangsi and Fukien Provinces now have reached Kweichow.

With the movement of Communist hordes to the westward the "republic within a republic" which had existed six years in Kiangsi is believed to be near extinction.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has ordered the seizure of the remaining Communist strongholds before the end of the year.

Ship Holding Up Land and Lake Traffic

MANITOWAC, Wis., Dec. 3 (AP).—The Canadian freighter Canadoc, laden with 262,280 bushels of barley, tonight was aground amidships in the draw of the 10th Street Bridge here, blocking other river traffic.

The Ann Harbor car ferry Wabash was unable to clear for Frankfort, Mich., because of the mishap, and with the bridge held open vehicular and pedestrian traffic was rerouted.

Six additional feet of water were needed to release the Canadoc, which draws eighteen feet.

FRANCE AND GERMANY REACH AGREEMENT IN SAAR DISPUTE

Price for Mines Settled in Event of Territory Voting in January to Return to Reichs Control and Germany Guarantees Equal Rights to All in District

Accord Regarded Important Act Toward Preserving Peace

ROME, Dec. 3 (AP).—Germany and France clasped hands today across the troublesome Saar no-man's land. Count De Chambrun, Ambassador of France, and Ambassador Ulrich Von Hassell, of Germany, signed an agreement in the name of their governments designed to eliminate the rich Saar basin plebiscite threat to European peace.

Arranged under the auspices of the League of Nations Committee of the Saar, the accord provides that should Saarlanders vote to return to Germany in the January 13 plebiscite, Germany will pay 900,000,000 francs ($58,000,000), and 11,000,000 tons of coal, for France's mines and private credits in the Saar Basin.

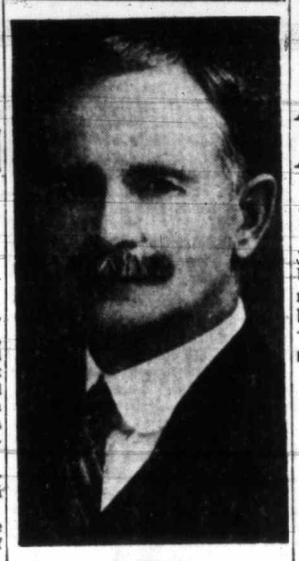

EQUAL RIGHTS FOR ALL

Furthermore, the agreement guarantees that Germany will accord equal rights to voters and non-voters among all inhabitants of the Saar, regardless of race, religion or language.

The agreement disposes of one of the most difficult problems connected with the prebiscite-transfer of French property, and particularly the mines, which were given to France, by the Treaty of Versailles,

SEEKING HONOR FOR DR. DAFOE

Physician to Dionne Quintuplets Will Be Recommended for Nobel Prize

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (CP).—The name of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, fifty-one-year-old physician to the Dionne quintuplets, will be laid before the Nobel Commission on the ground that the doctor has contributed outstandingly to medical achievement, it was learned today.

Report of the move to propose Dr. Dafoe for the Nobel Prize was made by Dr. Elmer Lee, of New York, a child specialist, who will be Dr. Dafoe's host here next week.

RECOGNIZES PRACTITIONERS

The submission of Dr. Dafoe's name to the Nobel Commission is on the basis of recognition of the physician, not only for his own care of the quintuplets, but as a symbol of the many thousands of unsung general practitioners who are constantly meeting emergencies, Dr. Lee said, in announcing the nomination. Dr. Lee added:

STRONG SENTIMENT

"I find strong sentiment in favor of this proposal, not only on the part of the public, but also of leaders of public opinion. It has been the rule to award the Nobel Prize to laboratory men, who have the facilities and funds of great institutions to assist them in the advancement of medical science.

"Here is a man far from civilization, whose profession and personal character have caused him to keep abreast of these discoveries and to be able to apply them instantly in this rare emergency. He is representative of the great unrecognized rank and file of medicine. In honoring him, they will be recognized and honored.

Former Chain Store Employees Give Evidence at Mass-Buying Inquiry

OTTAWA, Dec. 3 (CP).—Dominion Stores, Limited, dismissed one of its Toornto managers to make room for a former woman employee, who threatened them with legal action under the minimum wage law, the Parliamentary Mass Buying Commission was told today. The entire sitting today was taken up hearing former chain stores employees.

James McWatters, employed nine years in Toronto by Dominion Stores, said he was dismissed November 30, 1933, for a stock shortage of $25, although he admitted giving short weight and padding his credits in an effort to balance it. When he went to a store at 2238 Queen Street, East, in April, 1932, a woman clerk, a widow with children, was getting $13 a week, gradually was reduced to $8 and finally let out.

LOST HIS POSITION

In November, 1933, McWatters said he reported to Dominion Store headquarters that the woman was threatening proceedings under the minimum wage law. A few days later, McWatters was dismissed and the woman given his job.

Three former employees of Dominion Stores and one from Stop and Shop gave evidence today and more will follow tomorrow. Early in the day, resulting from a protest by Arthur Ellis, counsel for Dominion Stores, the chains will be given the opportunity to present rebuttal evidence as soon as the former employees have been called, in an ef-

Put Himself Above King By Accident

LONDON, Dec. 3 (CP). — The photograph of the register signed following the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, widely reproduced today, shows the signature of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominion, above those of the King and Queen. This aroused considerable comment, but the genial Cabinet minister easily explained it.

"It was a pure accident," he said. "There was not much room on the register; someone said, 'Please sign here,' so I signed there."

F. G. LUCAS, K.C. IS NEW JUDGE

Vancouver Lawyer Elevated to Bench Received Training in Province

OTTAWA, Dec. 3 (CP).—The appointment of F. G. T. Lucas, K.C., of Vancouver, to be a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia was approved by the Governor-General today. He succeeds Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald resigned.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3 (CP).—Frederick G. T. Lucas, whose appointment to the British Columbia Supreme Court bench succeeding Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, was announced in Ottawa tonight, received his entire legal training in British Columbia.

Born in Alviston, Western Ontario, in 1878, Mr. Lucas moved with his parents to Calgary, while a child, and received his early schooling in the Albertan city. He attended the University of Toronto, graduating in 1901, and coming in the same year to Vancouver, where he entered the law firm of the late Hon. Joseph Martin, stormy petrel of Western Canada's early political days.

He was called to the bar in 1905, and two years later formed a partnership with his brother, E. A. Lucas, with whom he has conducted his law practice ever since.

He was appointed Vancouver Crown Prosecutor during the time when the late Hon. W. J. Bowser was Attorney-General of British Columbia, and since that time has conducted the prosecution in a number of prominent criminal trials throughout the Province.

His father, Alex Lucas, who came here shortly after his son, with the late Judge H. G. Cayley and the late Hon. James Lougheed, founded The Calgary Daily Herald and later became mayor of Calgary.

Christmas Present Of $250,000 Comes From City Council

Ald. P. R. Brown, Chairman of the Finance Committee, Announces Big Sinking Fund Surplus —Large Cash Balance on General Account

A CHRISTMAS gift, valued at more than $250,000, was given to the citizens of Victoria at last night's meeting of the City Council, when Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, announced that a large surplus had been built up in the sinking fund, which would not only take care of the 1935 sinking fund requirements, but leave a substantial surplus to be carried over to the 1936 council.

At the beginning of this year the council used the entire $180,000 surplus in the 1933 sinking fund to reduce the 1934 mill rate. When the budget was being revised, Alderman Brown conducted a single-handed fight for recognition of the 1935 sinking fund charges. However, the council voted in favor of ignoring them this year in view of the many burdens that had been placed on the city's shoulders.

By wise selling and reinvestment of the sinking funds, and also by exchanging of bonds, Alderman Brown was able last night to report that the surplus is sufficient to take care of the $241,000 sinking fund requirement that was not included in the 1934 budget, and still have a substantial sum left over. While he declined to disclose the exact amount of the surplus, it is understood that the surplus remaining after the sinking fund requirements

MOSCOW, Dec. 4 (AP).—Wholesale arrests of white guards were announced today by Soviet officials, as the body of the assassinated Communist leader, Sergei Kiroff, lay in state in Leningrad. The white guards were accused of preparing terroristic acts against the Soviet officials.

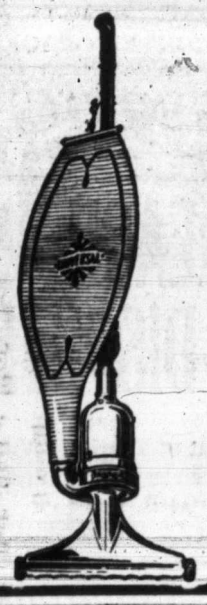

In the round-up of the alleged terrorists, thirty-nine were seized in the Leningrad region and thirty-two in the Moscow area.

Kiroff's assassin was identified in a Government communique as Leonid Nicolieff, thirty, former employee of the Workers and Peasants' Inspection Bureau.

Salvation of World Lies in Democracy Not Dictatorship

Visiting British Team Awarded Verdict in Inter-Empire Debate, Held at Chamber of Commerce Last Night—Capacity Audience Present

THE visiting Oxford-Cambridge team was awarded the verdict in the Inter-Empire debate held last night before a capacity audience at the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium, the visitors, who were opposed by a Victoria team, upholding the affirmative in the argument: "Resolved That the Future Political Salvation of the World Lies in Democracy Rather Than Dictatorship."

The announcement, made by the chairman, Dean Quainton, was received with enthusiastic applause. Coupled with his congratulations to the winners, the Dean included a word of high praise to the local team when he said that if Canada could produce the type of young man represented on the negative side of the debate, it augured well for the future of the country.

The English team, supporting the affirmative, consisted of Robertson Crichton (Oxford) and Leslie Turnour Jackson (Cambridge), and the Victoria team, supporting the negative, of James A. Gibson and John Gough. The judges in considering the placing of the verdict, marked on the basis of 60 per cent for the substance of the argument, and 40 per cent for the form and method of presentation. The judges were Miss Jeannette Cann, B. C. Nicholas and Dr. W. A. Carrothers.

FORCEFUL ARGUMENTS

Forceful arguments were marshaled both in favor of democracy and dictatorship and adroitness was shown by all debaters in the handling of their own and their opponents' material. Mr. Jackson, the Cambridge debater to whom fell the privilege of rebuttal, epitomized his argument in the statement that it was useless, now that mankind had tasted of the fruits of democracy, to try to deny him democracy. Dictatorships had happened in the world before Hitler or Mussolini. Rome had tried the experiment and from that moment the decline of Rome began. If that were the way of political evolution how could the opposition say that the future of the world lay in dictatorship?

CRITICAL TIME

"Democracy is an easy word to toy with in an age of prosperity. But it is always to be viewed with suspicion at a time of crisis," Mr. Jackson, of the British team, said, in opening his argument for the affirmative side of the debate. The depression of the past few years had driven people to examine with keener critical faculty the so-called democratic systems of government.

"If the world is to be saved by democracy it will be by complete democracy, not by the shallow democracy of the last century," he told his audience.

The types of dictatorship exemplified by Italy, Germany and Russia were examined. The rise of Fascism had meant, in the economic world, the smashing of the small man and the strengthening of the big capitalist. There was more excuse for dictatorship in Russia, and once she weathered the storms there would be no need there to carry on the dictatorship, which, after all, had resulted in Russia having a 100 per cent increase in production during a period when production in other countries had declined.

RUSSIA DEMOCRATIZING

"Russia is heading back towards political democracy because she is successfully weathering the storm to set up economic democracy. Because Russia is operating today under a dictatorship does not prove that her salvation does not lie in democracy," this speaker maintained. The two Fascist countries, Italy and Germany, were economically in a bad way. Germany showed similar conditions, recent figures indicating that this nation's trade was the worst for years. In other words, dictatorships in these countries was not proving successful.

The party in England that was aiming at complete democracy, political and economic, had recently experienced tremendous gains at the polls. These figures showed that the ideal of democracy was not dead. Dictatorships might be a fine thing in a time of crisis. But they depended on crises for survival.

Mr. Jackson also maintained that education was making people much better fitted to govern themselves.

"If democracy which is not full democracy can survive with half-educated people, how much more likely is full democracy, with an intelligent and educated public, likely to survive. Democracy is at a discount in the world today because it has blundered."

NOT SECURE

John Gough, Victoria, first speaker for the negative, used the arguments of the previous speaker to point out how insecurely enthroned democracy was. Not only was the world not safe for democracy, but democracy was not safe for the world. Democracy had not met its challenge within recent years, despite the great strides it had made during the nineteenth century—chiefly because the issues were rather simple. Twentieth century problems were much more complex. Parliamentary insecurity had been met by coalitions, which were the antithesis of democracy. The ideal form of dictatorship, where the executive was free, offered political salvation. It was a fallacy of democracy to believe that politically gifted peoples existed. Political leadership was what was wanted.

IS RECOVERING

"Instead of dying, democracy is all over Europe," claimed Robert Crichton, the Oxford member of the British team supporting the affirmative. There was only coalition in England to the extent that the established parties were united against Socialism, he said in reply to the previous speaker. The growth of dictatorship in Italy and Germany was symptomatic of diseased condition in the nations; it was not a chronic state. These countries would revert to democratic principles. The whole business of dictatorships in Europe, at the present time, was traceable to lack of sense of security, Germany's Nazi party having sprung up in consequence of the inferiority complex created as the result of that country's treatment at the hands of the rest of the world since 1919. Not by advocating dictatorship, not by advocating nationalism, but by the building up of a sense of international security would international security be attained.

RHODES SCHOLAR

James Gibson, Victoria Rhodes scholar, who was the second speaker on the negative side of the debate, argued that it was possible that the transition from the "somewhat muddled pseudo-democracy to dictatorship would involve less essential disruption in the settled basis of life than an attempt to work a rigorously legal democracy." A struggle, first for power, then for the maintenance of power, had very often resulted in contentment with mere deciding of an issue, without any further concern as to what constructive measures should be taken to keep pace with the progress of political achievement.

Dictatorship is a form of government calculated to make use of the best intellectual resources in the country," said this speaker, adding that in saying this he did not support the particular forms of dictatorship in use in Italy and Germany at the present time. The business of organized government had become so complicated that it could not be efficient unless it could command the services of men of the very highest talents.

WARD LIBERALS NAME OFFICERS

A. Humphries Elected President by Saanich Group—Alan Chambers Is Speaker

A. Humphries was elected president of the Saanich Ward Seven Liberal Association, at the annual meeting, held in the Tillicum School, last night. J. Hancock was elected vice-president, and A. Hemming, secretary.

The executive is as follows: Mrs. Foreman, Mrs. A. Humphries, Mrs. J. Hancock, Mrs. Hunt, Mr. A. Derman, Mr. Proudfoot, Mr. Foreman and Mr. Foster. Delegates to the central executive are as follows: Mr. Derman and Mr. Proudfoot.

Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in the Nanaimo Federal riding, dealt chiefly with the question of unemployment, and pointed out the manner in which the Bennett administration had handled the problem, and, in his opinion, it had failed utterly.

FIVE HEADINGS

Mr. Chambers listed the unemployment policies of Premier Bennett under five headings: First, raising the tariff, which had resulted in a tremendous loss of exports; second, providing of relief works which had been too expensive; third, direct relief, which could not even be dignified by terming it a dole; fourth, work camps for single men, the allowance being twenty cents a day, which speaks for itself, and fifth, direct share in responsibility of unemployment relief repudiated on August 1, last, and special grants substituted in place of the one-third share with the Provincial and municipal governments.

OFFERS SOLUTION

The Liberal party was offering as its solution of the unemployment problem, if returned to office: First, restoration of trade by reducing the tariffs; second, wide social legislation, and third, control of national credit by the nation and not by private interests, Mr. Chambers asserted.

The Liberal party stood committed to a policy of instituting state health insurance and unemployment insurance, and a wider superannuation scheme, the speaker said.

Norman Whittaker, M.P.P., member for the Saanich riding, gave a few brief remarks.

INTEREST RATE REMAINS SAME

Total of $653,000 Paid in Charges on Esquimalt Waterworks Mortgage

A total of $653,366 has been paid in interest on the Esquimalt Waterworks mortgage since the debt was first incurred, Alderman Andrew McGavin informed the City Council, last night, when announcing that so far "we have been unable to obtain a reduction in the interest rates."

"We have been after the mortgagees time and again through their representative. He tells us the family is poor, so I guess we'll just have to keep riding them, and when I say ride them, I mean it. That's the only way we will get anywhere," he declared.

"The first charge against the Esquimalt Waterworks mortgage is dated June 23, 1909, and amounts to $550,000. The second charge is dated August 23, 1910, and amounts to $75,000, making a total of $625,000. The interest was payable at the rate of 4.5 per cent," Alderman McGavin explained.

"The Esquimalt Waterworks Company, from 1909 to 1925, paid $449,528 in interest. The city, since 1925, until August of this year, paid $203,838 in interest," the alderman continued, dividing the interest payments so as to show the city's share after it took over the waterworks company.

"Altogether $653,366 have been paid in interest. The amount of the mortgage now stands at $348,224. However, this poor family cannot even give us ½ of 1 per cent reduction," he concluded.

WILL CONTINUE FREIGHT FIGHT

Industrial Committee Asked to Pursue Effort for Reduction in Rates

The industrial committee of the City Council will take further steps to secure removal of the differential in freight rates between Okanagan and Vancouver and Okanagan and Victoria.

In a letter from the Federal Minister of Agriculture, it was claimed that Victoria was at an advantage over Vancouver due to low harbor dues and absence of certain handling charges that have to be paid by Vancouver.

The council, last night, took the stand that this explanation was beside the point, and consequently asked the industrial committee to pursue the matter further.

The city was asked to act in the matter by the Victoria Cold Storage & Terminal Warehouse, Ltd. This company claimed the differential was hurting Victoria's export business.

Family of Five Burned in Boat

PARKIN, Ark., Dec. 3 (AP).—A futile effort to rescue three sleeping children from a burning houseboat, resulted in the loss of five lives, at River Front, a small community of fishermen and farmers, located on St. Francis Bay, seven miles from here.

Bill Haliburton, thirty-five, his wife and children, burned to death and the boat sank after being consumed by the flames.

INDIANS MAY NOW DIG FOR CLAMS IN SAANICH

Although the Victoria Chamber of Commerce objected some time ago to Indians digging up the beaches, the directors decided, at luncheon, yesterday, that they would not protest against the natives digging clams, in Saanich, in an effort to keep off relief.

W. T. Straith, president, introduced the matter, when he told of a conversation between the deputy Minister of Fisheries and himself, in which the deputy minister had informed him that Indians in Saanich were applying for relief, but could keep off the lists if allowed to dig clams.

CONSIDER PLANS FOR WHARF HERE

Victoria Chamber of Commerce Will Select Probale Site for Public Float

To consider the advisability of building a free public wharf in the harbor and to select a probable site, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will name a committee, it was decided at a luncheon-meeting of the directors of that body, in Spencer's dining-room, yesterday.

Captain Lincoln Smith, in speaking on the matter, stated that there were 2,000 licensed fishing boats operating on the East and West Coasts of Vancouver Island, which harbored "somewhere" during the bad weather each year. Many of these craft make their Winter headquarters at Vancouver, Port Alberni and several other points where public wharves are located, he said.

The speaker pointed out that the building of such a wharf, here, would attract nearly 100 boats each season, and assure Victoria of financial benefits from the many fishermen.

Owing to the narrowness of Korea, there are no great rivers.

YOUNG ROBBERS SENT TO PRISON

Plead Guilty to Charges of Stealing From Departure Bay Camps

NANAIMO, Dec. 3. — Pleading guilty to eight charges of stealing various articles from Departure Bay Summer camps, Henry E. Wilson and his brother, Fred J., of Departure Bay, were today sentenced by Stipendiary Magistrate C. H. Beevor-Potts to one year in Oakalla with hard labor. Henry Wilson was given an additional three months for the theft of a revolver from the store of G. Banasky, Nanaimo.

The youthful robbers, twenty-six and twenty-two, were equipped with rubber gloves and black masks, and had evidently been carrying out robberies for a considerable length of time.

Constable Chris Jacklin was praised by the magistrate for the work he had done in locating the stolen goods and making the arrests.

URGE COMPLETE ISLAND SURVEY

Bureau of Mines Decides on Recommendation — Honorary Members Elected

NANAIMO, Dec. 3 (CP).—The Vancouver Island Bureau of Mines will urge the completion of the geological survey of the northern end of Vancouver Island, the executive decided at a meeting today.

The work, if recommenced, will take the better part of four years. A previous survey, left uncompleted at the outbreak of the war, was under the direction of Dr. R. W. Brock, now dean of applied science at the University of British Columbia.

Those elected to honorary membership at the meeting included C. Bocking, of the Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting and Power Co.; W. G. Murrin, of the B.C. Electric Railway Co.; S. G. Blaylock, of the Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Co.; C. P. Browning, of the Britannia Mining, Smelting and Power Co.; J. J. Forster, of the Canadian Pacific Railway; G. A. McNichol, of the Canadian National Railways, and Frank Woodsie, of the B.C. Chamber of Mines.

COUNCIL TABLES RAISE REQUEST

Outside Staff Ask Upward Revision of Salaries and Sick Leave Privileges

Alderman P. R. Brown's recommendation that the two requests made by the outside staff of the City Hall be treated separately failed to get support at last night's meeting of the City Council, and as a result, the petition was referred to the 1935 estimates committee.

The outside staff asked the council to consider an upward revision in salaries, and a readjustment of the present sick leave privileges, so that the outside staff would be placed on the same basis as the inside staff.

Alderman Brown expressed the view that the council could treat with the latter matter this year, and asked that the two points be considered separately.

Opposition to his proposal was advanced whereupon he declared that it had not been his wish to make the reference, but he was forced to state that it was his intention to lay the matter over until after the election, when the report would be submitted from the fire wardens with respect to the wage dispute.

Finds Inspiration In Trade Revival Enjoyed by Britain

President of Bank of Montreal Advocates Co-ordination of Railways and Legislation to Deal With Unemployment

MONTREAL, Dec. 3 (CP).—The inspiring example of Great Britain in trade revival was held before Canadians as a model in the presidential address of Sir Charles B. Gordon, delivered today before the annual meeting of Bank of Montreal shareholders.

Sir Charles contrasted the unified efforts at business improvement in Great Britain with the economic experiments of the United States, and said:

"It is a reasonable deduction that the wisest course for us to follow is to give single-minded devotion to reviving business by the methods which experience has shown to be fundamentally sound and not to interfere with the improvement now under way by applying new and untried theories and enacting hampering legislation."

OFFERS SUGGESTIONS

In the fields of government and finance, the bank president offered the following recommendations:

Legislation dealing with the whole subject of unemployment will have to be undertaken in Canada and the United States, as it is the greatest problem since the war.

Losses of the Canadian National Railways are the greatest deterrent to Canada's financial recovery, and the first step in a proper co-ordination of all forms is the co-ordination of the railways. All forms of transportation should be regulated by a Dominion board.

In the present strong market for government bonds, governments should effect long-term rather than short-term borrowing.

Depositors may be considered as preferred shareholders of banks, and no action should be taken that would further curtail the earning power of the commercial banks.

SAYS OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

In the outlook for the future, Sir Charles said, there are many reasons that justify the hope for continuation of the betterment seen during the past year.

"There is comforting statistical evidence that our resources are so large and so varied that when one door of opportunity closes another always opens. Unemployment and direct relief looms as a larger problem today in Canada and the United States than ever before," the bank president warned. "There has always been unemployment, but no legislation of an important character has been passed to deal with it.

"In Great Britain, this problem has been dealt with in a most thorough manner. Some of us thought, when we first heard of old age pensions, unemployment insurance—misnamed the dole—and other measures, the Parliament was going too far in introducing social legislation of this nature.

"Legislation to deal with this whole subject will have to be undertaken by the Governments of Canada and the United States; otherwise the problem will get out of hand, and it will be impossible to control the proper expenditure of the vast sums which are being voted for the purpose of unemployment relief."

MORE DRASTIC REMEDIES

Income losses of the Canadian National Railways for the past ten years, Sir Charles said, have totaled $593,000,000. The co-operative measures between the companies have fallen far short of giving adequate relief, and unless better results can be secured under the present system, more drastic remedies must be applied.

"It is inconceivable," he declared, "that there should be undue delay in adopting a common policy to meet other forms of transportation competition. All transportation should be co-ordinated, not by throttling competitive systems, but by elimination of useless competition.

"A first step," he asserted, "is the co-ordination of our railways. A second step is the regulating of all forms of transportation under a Federal board of transportation commissioners, vested with powers similar to those of the Board of Railway Commissioners, but on a wider and more comprehensive scale."

GOVERNMENT BORROWING

The low cost of money had enabled Governments to borrow and refund at reduced interest and so effect a saving, Sir Charles said, but this advantage is offset by mounting debt.

"Manifestly," he declared, "the need for close economy in public expenditure persists."

The United Kingdom set a wise example the past few years in borrowing on long-term issues, thus making sure of present low rates for many years to come.

"In the United States, and to a lesser degree in Canada, the tendency has been to resort more to short-term borrowing, where the rates of interest admittedly are less onerous, but little recognition is given to the fact that short-term loans fall due within the compass of a very few years, and that no one can predict what interest rates will then prevail."

Sir Charles expressed regret at the retirement of Harold Kennedy from the board of directors, due to ill health, and stated the vacancy had been filled by election of A. B. Purvis, a resident and managing director of Canadian Industries, Limited.

NOT TO OPPOSE FRASER BRIDGE

Chamber of Commerce Decides Project Concerns New Westminster Alone

Deciding the construction of a new toll bridge at New Westminster was no concern of theirs, members of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, at luncheon in Spencer's dining-room, yesterday, ordered filed a letter from R. H. B. Ker, a member, who urged the chamber to pass a resolution objecting to the project.

Mr. Ker, in the letter, said he was against pledging the credit of the Province for another $3,500,000 for the half-mile of road and bridge. He pointed out that the new bridge was not absolutely necessary, and if the province could raise such a sum, he was of the opinion it could be spent better on resurfacing the badly-neglected highways. With this sum of three and a half million dollars, 900 miles of hard surface work could be done, the letter stated.

SAYS NEW BRIDGE NEEDED

Speaking in opposition to the letter, B. C. Nicholas declared there was an absolute need for a new bridge, as the existing one was inadequate. Mr. Nicholas was of the opinion that the raising of such an issue between the Mainland and the Island would be unwise. He reminded the gathering that should it oppose the bridge, then they might expect opposition in return when the West Coast Road project is launched again. Mr. Nicholas further pointed out that the Provincial Government would not be called upon to provide the funds for the erection of the Fraser River bridge.

Reeve R. W. Mahew, of Oak Bay, in expressing the view held by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at its meeting in Kamloops, explained that every delegate, with the exception of the one from New Westminster, was opposed to the project.

George McGregor asserted the bridge was no credit to the province, and added he did not think it the duty of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to criticize the plan to erect a new structure over Fraser River.

Octopus Attacks And Nearly Sinks Boat in Red Sea

A giant octopus, reported to measure over sixty feet, attacked a 200-ton fishing boat in the Red Sea, recently, and nearly overturned it.

When pulling in their nets, the fishermen were astonished to find them extremely heavy and thought that they must be overflowing with fish. Suddenly, however, they saw a huge dark mass rise from the sea and attach one of its tentacles to the side of the boat, which threatened to sink at any moment.

The situation was critical when a second boat came to the rescue and fired over fifty shots at the monster, which, however, appeared to be immune from bullets. It continued to drag the boat with it in its wild struggles until a number of the crew, armed with axes, hacked off the tentacle, whereupon the octopus disappeared below the surface of the sea.

CEREMONY HELD BY ELKS LODGE

Annual Memorial Service for Departed Members Impressive

Victoria Lodge No. 2, Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, held its twenty-first annual memorial service in the clubrooms, at 9 o'clock, Sunday night. The service was one of the most impressive and inspiring held for many years. Rev. E. F. Church officiated.

In his address to the club, Mr. Church pointed out the great need that existed to educate the public away from the fear of death. The fear really should not exist among Christian people, he said, for the sting of death had been removed by Christ's crucifixtion at Calvary and His resurrection on the third day.

A FUTURE LIFE

Christ's sacrifice had demonstrated conclusively to the entire world that there was a life hereafter, and for those converted to the Christian faith there should be no fear of death. It was but the act that marked the transition of the soul from the earthly to the spiritual sphere.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Church paid high tribute to the late John R. Matson, who passed away last week. He alluded to Mr. Matson's membership in the Elks Club, Mr. Church stating he had known him personally. He was a man of great business integrity and a clean sportsman, through and through. Mr. Matson, he said, was one of Victoria's leading business men, and one who endeared himself to the hearts of all.

ORDER OF SERVICE

The ritualistic service was conducted under the supervision of Exalted Ruler Robert C. Malcolm and officers of the lodge. An orchestra played a prelude to the service, after which the memorial ritual was conducted by the officers of the lodge. This was followed by the opening ode and the invocation by the chaplain. The members then sang the hymn "Old Hundred," after which Thomas Kelway sang the solo, "Bless This House."

Orchestra selections of sacred numbers followed and Mr. Church gave the memorial address. The hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light" was then sung by the members, and this was followed by orchestral selections and a solo by Mrs. Georgina Watt, "O, Rest in the Lord," and a solo by A. Jackman, "Open the Gates." The lodge's closing ceremony followed, then the National Anthem and Benediction.

NAMES ARE READ

During the lodge ritual at the beginning of the service, the names of Elk members who had passed away in recent years were read to the members. Following are the names: James Haynes, Seth L. Chamberlain, Howard Potts, Charles Marks, George Scott, Fred W. Ella, Arthur H. Thomas, John A. Gardiner, Rev. F. C. Mortimer, Donald Munro, Calvin M. Spencer, John Walter Lorimer and John R. Matson.

The officers taking part in the memorial rites and the closing ceremonies were: Exalted Ruler R. C. Malcolm, Secretary P. A. Raymond, Leading Knight A. W. Erickson, Loyal Knight A. Paton, Lecturing Knight Percy C. Payne, Treasurer A. D. Findley and Chaplain Edgar Jones.

LEAVES SERVICE OF C.N. RAILWAY

Percy W. Buttler, General Agent of System at Ottawa, Joined Grand Trunk in 1905

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—One of the best known railway men in Eastern Canada, Percy M. Buttler, for several years general agent of the Canadian National Railways at Ottawa, retired from the company's services with the completion of business on Friday last, it was officially announced today at Canadian National headquarters here.

P. M. Buttler has been in the service of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways since October 1, 1905. His career as traveling passenger agent, city passenger agent, and later, general agent of the company, brought him in contact with every prominent Canadian as well as with statesmen and leaders in other countries, who have visited the Dominion and its capital.

Born in Ottawa, on February 1, 1874, Mr. Buttler joined the Grand Trunk passenger department in that city as traveling passenger agent on October 1, 1905. On March 1, the following year, he was promoted to city passenger and ticket agent, and became general agent of the passenger department on January 1, 1916. During the war years his work in connection with troop movements was of a most important and arduous character, and brought him high commendation from the military authorities of the Dominion. In December, 1920, Mr. Buttler was appointed general agent of the Canadian National system at Ottawa, representing all departments, the position which he has since filled until his retirement.

DOMINION PROJECTS DEVELOPING RAPIDLY

$60,000 of the $100,000 appropriation made for Victoria; and is exclusive of larger plans for erection here of a Federal Marine Building, for which several hundred thousand dollars would be necessary.

Ordinary maintenance work in the area includes $14,000 in repairs and renovation to the Victoria Postoffice, some of which work is already under way. In the main lobby of the Postoffice three swing doors have been replaced with a wide, open arch, adding to facility of ingress and egress.

On the south side of the Postoffice, a concrete sidewalk is to be relaid, so that it will shed water, which accumulated on a level stretch of pavement heretofore. Tiling of the main floor and outer lobby, and installation of revolving doors at the main portal may be delayed until after the Christmas rush, Federal officials said, yesterday. Six thousand feet of mastic tile have already been laid.

Lampadephoria was a torch race, such as was held in many places in the Greek world in honor of various divinities.

Awarded Degree by Anglican College

REV. A. M. ACHESON-LYLE, M.A.

WHO, at yesterday's meeting of the Victoria Ministerial Association, of which he is secretary-treasurer, was tendered congratulations upon the successful completion of two years of extra-mural work in the Anglican Theological College in Vancouver, and the attainment of the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Mr. Acheson-Lyle was curate at Christ Church Cathedral for three years prior to being appointed rector of the parishes of Colwood and Langford.

Unique Examples Of Wild Life at Australian Show

The kangaroo is lying down with the platypus and the teddy bear playing at the nest of the kookaburra in a huge enclosure that houses a unique collection of Australia's "living fossil" fauna at Melbourne, states an Australian exchange.

Considerable trouble was taken to scour the Commonwealth for the most complete set of native animals and birds that had ever been collected in one reserve. It was all done for the benefit of visitors.

One of the most interesting features of the centenary show is the "platypussery," which houses several of these freaks of nature. The wedge-tailed eagle, the largest of its species in the world, also is included, together with kangaroos, wallabies, bandicoots, wombats, Koala bears, frilled and monitor lizards, emus and many other queer specimens that have survived in Australia from prehistoric times.

MRS. K. MOODIE IS CALLED BY DEATH

The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home and will be moved to 1275 St. David Street late this afternoon for services tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. A. deB. Owen will officiate. Interment will be made at Banff.

LAST RITES TODAY

CIVIC DEVELOPMENT

The formation of the Tourist Trade Development Association for this community is an excellent move. What is proposed is a progressive plan which in its broadest interpretation is the provision of entertainment for tourists so that their stay here will be prolonged and their numbers increased. It is the sound and sensible way to decide on a campaign in this direction which will be undertaken consistently, without hurry, but giving time to estimate the value of each new step taken. It is conceivable, too, that a programme of entertainments and recreational facilities, in which both our own citizens and visitors can share, can be devised at a comparatively small expenditure, and that once the scheme is well afoot it will be continued and expanded by private enterprise that will all be part of a plan.

The association called into existence by Mayor Leeming will shortly have before it an elaborate programme prepared by an expert, one that goes into details of what can be done in the way of organization. Moreover, a survey has been made of how Victoria's geographical facilities for promoting tourist traffic can be so enhanced that such traffic is almost certain to increase. From time to time many suggestions have been made in this respect. The report to be submitted to the Tourist Trade Development Association more than confirms the advantages which our citizens believe that they enjoy, and points out in a practical way how those advantages can be utilized with cumulative benefits. It is certain that surprise will be expressed at the low initial capital required for the development proposed, which it is suggested should be extended over a period of five years. Once launched, and through a system of concessions, it is anticipated that development will not only cost the taxpayers nothing, but will be a source of revenue to the city treasury.

The advisory committee of the Tourist Trade Development Association has been formed with a view to embracing all interests concerned in the matter of civic progress. The best results will be secured if there is unanimous co-operative effort, if the citizens are a unit in their belief that something worth while can be accomplished, and if, in bringing constructive plans about all will put their shoulders to the wheel. Most assuredly the plan which the Mayor will lay before tomorrow's meeting is of a character which may well enlist the most substantial public support. Those cities progress best which are imbued with the soundest civic patriotism. No doubt the plans proposed will be canvassed, and possibly amended, but when the revised programme is before the people, then it will be for the citizens as a whole to make it a success by accomplishing the objects in view.

THE "PEACE" BALLOT

The "peace" ballot taken in Great Britain under the auspices of the League of Nations Society resulted in confirmation of what it sought to prove. The ballot, however, attracted the attention of less than 2 per cent of the population. This is an indication that the nation as a whole is not interested in hypothetical questions. They were hypothetical since the facts of any given set of circumsances that may arise tend to alter the human outlook. The ordinary citizen probably wondered why the paper had been sent to him. He would argue that its object was to bring pressure to bear upon the Government, and at once the suspicion would arise in his mind that authority was not in earnest in its efforts to promote peace. Such suspicions do not help international peace. If there were no distrust of governmental motives there would be no need for "peace" ballots. On the other hand, if the good motives of a government are recognized, but it is believed that the plans of execution are at fault, then it is the details of policy that should be attacked and not an indirect arraignment of motives.

Professor A. L. Woodward of All Souls College, Oxford, thinks the terms in which the "peace" ballot paper was couched may have a dangerous result outside of Great Britain. He says that "one of the most striking factors in the situation before 1914 was the combined misinterpretation in Germany of the nebulous and negative agitation in Great Britain against war and armaments. This agitation was undertaken out of the highest motives; but it continually evaded the real and concrete issues of policy by taking refuge in vague, general talk. This talk was interpreted in Germany not merely as a sign of decadence (one need not bother about nonsense of this type) but as proof that in any sudden crisis German 'shock tactics' would succeed, because British opinion was so chaotic and hesitant upon the question whether any European cause was worth defending by force that no British Cabinet would venture to take decisions which might involve war.

"The Government of Germany is not, in my opinion, in wiser hands today than in the years before 1914. The governors of Germany have not given up the 'shock tactics' which have been, since Bismarck's time, the chosen weapon of German diplomacy. The misunderstanding of non-German opinion is no less remarkable in Germany now than it was in 1914. The German nation is as docile as ever in its submission to authority. We may deplore these facts. They exist. If we ignore them we are endangering the lives of British working men. In these circumstances I cannot help thinking that a heavy responsibility rests upon those Englishmen who, with the best intentions, are taking a line of action likely to bewilder still further their own bewildered countrymen, to harass and weaken the authority of their own freely-elected Government in international conversations, and to encourage the rulers of Germany to make once again that mistake about the real temper of the British people which was made by the leaders of the German nation twenty years ago."

SOCIALISTIC ECONOMY

Sir Stafford Cripps, the stormy petrel of Socialistic propaganda, is urging that if a Labor Government should attain power in the next British election it should challenge the whole strength of capitalism with a view to establishing immediately a regime of Socialism. That is the Socialistic creed which is enunciated by Sir Stafford with reckless levity. Sir Stafford intimates that in the event of his Socialism ensuing a "first-rate financial crisis" would develop. Presumably that would mean a new era of depression. The pertinent question is asked if the industries of Great Britain, on which the very existence of her people depends, will stand an experiment such as he advocates. He is asked if export trade will stand it. Socialism in Great Britain would not put an end to competition in overseas trade; it would not diminish the severity of that competition.

Great Britain could never maintain her place in the markets of the world under Socialism. Only an economic tragedy could be contemplated if the management of her factories and the conduct of business were in the hands of bureaucratic Socialism "with its inevitable concomitant of nepotism, inefficiency and extravagance." The British people are noted for their common sense. The Labor Party itself is extremely suspicious of the tenets put forward by Sir Stafford Cripps, and that Party, so far as Trades Unionism in its ranks is represented, is deeply concerned about the well being of the community as a whole. It is not in the political market for the purpose of creating "a first-class financial crisis," inasmuch as trade and industry are the first to suffer, as they have suffered in such crises of the past.

MRS. R. S. DAY

The late Mrs. R. S. Day was perhaps one of the most public-spirited women who had lived in this community for a long number of years. Her interests were many, her activity great, and her sustained enthusiasms something that evoked general admiration. Possessing a deeply-sympathetic heart, during her active years she was ever at work promoting the welfare of her fellow women. Particularly was this the case in her long connection with the Local Council of Women, to whom her advice was always sage, to whom her talents and painstaking ability were ungrudgingly given, and in whose upbuilding in this city she was a conspicuous organizer. It was the same in her connection with the Daughters of Empire, in fact with every organization in which she took a part. Her work as a member of the Women's Auxiliary to the Provincial Jubilee Hospital over a long term of years is too well known by all to need any tribute. Her earnestness in all she undertook, and her ability to assimilate so many duties during her active career, were emblematic of the type of woman she was—one with the most kindly feelings towards others, with a broad outlook, with energy that seemed indefatigable and with the faculty of getting work done. She is a loss to her sex and to the community generally, and very deep sympathy will go out to her sons and daughters.

INVOCATION

What, silent yet? for ever cold, unmoved?
Is there no fire to bring
Warmth to a stubborn heart and wake the birds
Of a new Spring?

Oh soul, be song! Let not thy silence show
How wide the wound and deep.
Echoes of music in the heart that mourns
Die not, but sleep

Let them awake. How like a peal of bells
The soft notes rise and fall,
And at their harmony grief sits entranced
Forgetting all.

Be then not mute, lest, like the fabled swan,
Thy first note be the last.
If for nought else, sing for the joys to come,
And sorrow past.

—Phyllis Hartnoll.

It is not the mere station of life that stamps the value on us, but the manner in which we act our part.—Schiller.

Stay, stay at home, my heart and rest;
Home-keeping hearts are happiest.
—Longfellow.

That destructive system, sloth, is ever to be avoided.—Horace.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

I have had playmates, I have had companions,
In my days of childhood, in my joyful school-days.
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.
—Lamb.

What changes may be wrought, what startling and unexpected things may happen, within the compass of a brief holiday! It is said that ill news travels fast. For more than two weeks we had read no news, because we had deliberately refrained from even looking at the newspapers, believing that that was the way to really enjoy a vacation. When we opened The Colonist on the morning after landing from the California steamer Emma Alexander the first item of news that arrested our eye and shocked our system was the announcement of the sudden death of Jack Matson. Turning over the pages of the paper, we read of the death and burial of Tom McCosh, J. Keith Wilson and Harold Fleming, whose faces were long familiar on the streets of Victoria.

There is an old saying that "the good may die; the old must die." Such is the ultimate and manifest destiny of all creatures endowed with physical life. Human beings, endowed with the gifts of reason and observation, realize this and are reconciled to it, and we believe some of the animals of the lower order have an instinctive knowledge of their inevitable end; but when the blood is warm and the physique strong and vigorous we are all apt to be careless and unconcerned about the future and to regard the gates of eternity as dimly visible at the end of a long road.

Our old and familiar friends, Messrs. McCosh, Wilson and Fleming, had traveled far along the way of life, and their call was not so unexpected as to be shocking; but the call to Jack Matson came literally like a bolt from the blue. The last time we saw him he was in the prime of life, healthy and vigorous, his kindly face illuminated with a smile and his voice expressing a cordial greeting to all his friends on the streets and to all his colleagues in the offices of The Colonist. There was no thought in the minds of any of us that the place he was called to fill upon the death of his deeply loved father was so soon to become vacant and that the places which knew him would know him no more; that there was nothing more to be done than pay tribute to his memory. They are passing, one by one, the old familiar faces.

In the realm of transportation, as in all modern systems, the old order is changing, giving place to the new. The railways have been challenged to a conflict in competition by the airways, the roadways and by water, and they have picked up the gage of battle. And they will have to fight for the right to existence. The accommodation and the provisions for passengers on modern steamships are more than comfortable; they are luxurious. We know that from recent experience on a ship of the Admiral Line. We found the officers of the ship both kindly and courteous, and if good digestion waited upon appetite, as it used to do, what tables were spread to tempt the appetite and stimulate the gastric juices. The staterooms are capacious and provided with every conceivable convenience, and there is the promenade deck on which to play games and gain the necessary physical exercise.

That is the sort of things the railways have to compete with, and they are preparing to do it. The railways already have two advantages—that of speed and of freedom from much-dreaded sea-sickness. But they have one disadvantage—that of lack of privacy and seclusion, which many travelers, particularly of the British race, desire. We see by late British papers that the railways, faced with the competition from many sources, are preparing to overcome this disadvantage. There seems to be little limit to the speed of trains in any part of the world these days. One train on a British railway attained a sustained speed of ninety-three miles an hour, which cannot be very far short of the rate of speed of the stream-lined express on one of the United States lines.

* * *

That, of course, is merely a matter of mechanics and sound construction, of equipment, and in competition it can be met in the air and on the roads. But the railways are going to provide accommodation which cannot be furnished by any of its competitors except steamships. They are going to introduce innovations which hitherto have been unknown and have not yet been contemplated in railway carriages. They are going to equip their sleeping cars with cabins which may be used for sleeping in perfect seclusion at night and may be converted into saloons by day, and at rates which will be much lower than the charges for ordinary Pullman berths.

In Britain, as in America, there is said to be no longer competition in rates charged upon railways; but in both countries there is competition in service, and travelers get the benefits, so that in some spheres of economics there may be a certain virtue in competition. It may be said there is nothing new in all this, as on some of the coaches of Canadian and American railway lines absolutely private compartments may be chartered—at a price, but not at a price lower than that of an ordinary Pullman bunk.

ETHICS OF RETAIL STORES

Sir,—Referring to your report in today's Colonist on the above subject, before the Parliamentary Commission, permit me to say that I have been employed by individual storekeepers, in the grocery and meat trades, as manager or sales clerk for more than twenty-five years, in Victoria and vicinity, and I can honestly say that I have never been asked, nor has it ever been suggested to me by an employer, that I descend to any of the practices complained of, viz. short-weighing, short-changing, overcharging or adulteration, and I still believe that the smaller merchant is honest and above board. I cannot speak for or against the chain stores as I have not been employed by any of them, so let the public judge for themselves and act accordingly.

E. WILLIAMS.

WHY ALL THIS SHAW?

Sir,—The name George Bernard Shaw is provocative of much controversy; countless anecdotes are told of this writer, lauding his wit and brilliance. He has received more than his share of newspaper and newsreel publicity. G. B. S. is quoted and misquoted, G. B. S. can always be depended upon to say and do the sensational thing.

Even with established and traditional rights as a wit, his brick-throwing activities only leave a tang on the surface, which gathers the more interest around his target to see what it is all about and only has the effect of promoting an enthusiastic interest, whereas, before our friend George B. Shaw heaved his brick, the interest was only passive. So, really, after all, he is a harmless old soul, more calculated to centre a more profound interest around the object of his criticism than otherwise.

We question whether these are the qualities of true greatness—a superb showman, a colossal egotist—a genius? Remove the glamor of Shaw's personality and will his works live?

There have been and are splendid writers going about their business, giving us conscientious, painstaking and excellent work, making no noise in the world, not trading on their foibles to "put over" their productions. We do not know whether they are vegetarians or Socialists, or whether they have sandy beards, but we know that they write and write well.

George Gissing was such a man. He never dreamed of fame or fortune—he hardly dared hope that one day he would have sufficient food, a warm room to write in and clothes of which he would not feel ashamed. Yet Gissing made for himself a unique place in the realms of English letters. We know little of the man—we know his work.

Of George Bernard Shaw we know too much. Will succeeding generations read Shaw. Somehow he makes us think of a package of firecrackers. After the noise and the illumination what have we left? —a few crumpled bits of crimson paper.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of December 4, 1884)

Pioneer Society—The annual meeting for election of officers of the Pioneer Society of British Columbia was held last night with the following results: President, J. Kurtz, re-elected; treasurer, C. Morton; secretary, W. C. Siffken; directors, J. J. Austin, E. C. Johnson, C. Bossi, J. Loewen and Thomas Elwyn; auditor, R. Wolfenden; and warden, Thomas Innes. Fifty new members have been added to the list of members, it was reported.

C.P.R. Progress—Construction on the Onderdonk contract on the C.P.R. is progressing at a rapid rate, and an additional number of men will be added to the present staff, there being about 5,000 now at work. Workmen are busily engaged in building tanks along the line. Lytton station is almost completed, and Ashcroft will be commenced in a few days.

Rink Reopened—Last evening at 7:30 o'clock the skating rink was again opened to the public. As was expected, there was a large attendance, and all those present seemed to enjoy themselves on the rollers. Mr. Sass, who has lately returned to this city, has assumed the management and will be pleased to see his many friends once more.

The New Theatre—J. McMullen, who returned from San Francisco yesterday, has come with the express object of tendering for the construction of the New Royal Victoria Theatre.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

MRS. BARNEY'S FIRST SQUEEZE

Today's hand was sent to me from the Island of Bonacca, a small island in the Caribbean Sea, off the coast of Honduras. According to Mr. Philip E. Barney, who submitted the hand to me, the ten-mile-long Island of Bonacca is famous for two reasons: It is where Columbus first saw a new continent, and it is where Mr. Barney's wife made her first squeeze play. Mrs. Barney sat South and fulfilled a six-heart contract by sqeezing West, the opening bidder.

West, dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

North: ♠ A Q J 4 ♥ 9 6 3 2 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ A 7
West: ♠ K 10 7 6 5 ♥ — ♦ A 7 ♣ K J 10 6 5 3
East: ♠ 9 3 2 ♥ Q 7 4 ♦ 9 5 4 3 2 ♣ 9 2
South: ♠ 8 ♥ A K J 10 8 5 ♦ K 10 6 ♣ Q 8 4

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
1♣(1)	Dbl.(2)	Pass	4♥(3)
4♠(4)	5♥(5)	Pass	6♥(6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1. West properly bids his six-card suit first.
2. With three honor tricks and support for both majors the take-out double is in order.
3. South, by her triple jump, invites a slam.
4. West, who is not vulnerable, shows his second suit, looking for a sacrifice.
5. North might have doubled, but, feeling that East and West would certainly go back to clubs, chose to raise his partner instead.
6. Possibly slightly optimistic as the previous jump to four hearts portrayed a strong hand. However, South realized that the dummy almost certainly would have strength in back of West in both spades and clubs.

West, for want of a better lead, opened the diamond ace and continued with a small diamond. As a matter of fact, there is no lead that West could have made which would have defeated the contract.

The second round of diamonds was won by the king in the South hand and the ace of hearts was now led. The dummy was reentered with the diamond queen for the indicated trump finesse, and South now proceeded to run down all of her trumps.

The trump leads, of course, very simply but very completely took all the force out of West's attack. He was unable to keep guards for both of his black kings. Actually West kept his spade king twice guarded and blanked the club king, hoping that his partner held the queen. South at this point led a low club, dropping West's king, and another club back to the queen, and then proceeded to take the last two tricks with the long club and spade ace.

TOMORROW'S HAND

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North: ♠ 8 6 2 ♥ 10 9 4 2 ♦ 7 ♣ J 10 7 6 2
West: ♠ A ♥ A K Q J ♦ Q J 10 9 6 ♣ A K Q
East: ♠ K 7 ♥ 8 6 5 ♦ 8 5 4 3 2 ♣ 8 5 3
South: ♠ Q J 10 9 5 4 3 ♥ 7 3 ♦ A K ♣ 9 4

This hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

IS TRANSFERRED TO LETHBRIDGE

George H. Baillie, Assistant to C. A. Cotterell, Goes to Alberta as Assistant Superintendent

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—George H. Baillie, assistant to C. A. Cotterell, assistant general manager here for the past four years, is transferred to Lethbridge as assistant superintendent, and E. McCracken, assistant superintendent at Lethbridge, is transferred to North Bend in the same position. Mr. McCracken succeeds W. J. McLean, who goes to Penticton as superintendent of the Kettle Valley Division, succeeding T. H. Crump, retired. The changes were announced today by C. A. Cotterell.

Mr. Baillie came here January 1, 1930, as assistant to Mr. Cotterell, from Winnipeg, where, from 1928 to 1930, he had been chief clerk in the office of the vice-president and general manager of Western lines. Prior to that he had been with the staff of the vice-president's office in Montreal, which he joined in 1918.

Active in Vancouver's community life, Mr. Baillie was a member of the Board of Trade and Terminal City Club, and also vice-president of the Junior Chamber of Civic Affairs.

Substantial Gains Expected From B.C. Industrial Output

Four Basic Industries of Province Anticipate $140,000,000 as Combined Value of Products in 1934—Increase of 16.5 Per Cent Seen

BRITISH Columbia primary industries are expected to have a combined output worth $140,000,000 this year, according to provincial officials yesterday. Of this total, lumber products may reach $45,000,000; minerals and metals, $41,000,000; agricultural products, $39,000,000; and fisheries, $15,000,000. This would compare with $120,000,000, the value of similar products last year, implying a gain of some 16.5 per cent.

The British Columbia Mines Department started the computations by gauging a year's production out of the experience of eleven months. On the same basis Lands, Agriculture and Fishery Departments believe they can expect a material increase in the combined value of products under those heads. The estimated returns were said to be conservative.

MARKS DEFINITE ADVANCE

Last year, British Columbia lumber and lumber products produced $39,000,000; Agriculture, $36,000,000; mines, $32,000,000, and fisheries, $12,000,000, approximately. This gave a total of $120,000,000 for the value of primary and raw materials, exclusive of secondary manufactures.

To the industrial total remains to be added the returns from factories, transportation, public utilities and other forms of services.

The significant point in current reports is that definite percentages of gain have been made this year in almost every class of industry. While the estimated totals for the year are projected from eleven months' operation, it is believed by Provincial observers that they will be well within the actual values to be recorded for the year as a whole.

At their peak, the primary industries had a combined output worth $250,000,000. The lowest point came in 1932, when the four basic industries of the province had a combined output of $109,000,000. In 1933, the figure was $120,000,000, while this year, as stated, it is expected to be around $140,000,000.

GYROS BUSY ON HAMPER WORK

Club to Occupy Headquarters Every Evening Until Distribution Completed

The announcement was made by Waldo Skillings and Louis Glazen at yesterday's Gyro luncheon, speaking for the committee of the club in charge of the Christmas hamper distribution which is to cover the city and environs this year, that already the headquarters at the corner of Yates and Vancouver Streets had been turned over to the club and from now on there would be general activity in getting everything in shape for the work in hand. Generous assistance was being offered from many quarters. The Gyros will carry out all the arrangements.

The public is being asked to listen in on the local radio station from December 11 to 21 when information will be available in connection with the work in hand. Well selected programmes will be given, sponsored by leading firms in the city.

CONCERT AT ROYAL

On December 17 in the Royal Victoria Theatre the Home Gas Optimists of Vancouver will give a concert in aid of the fund.

Every night from now on the Gyro Club will have workers at headquarters, which will be known as the Christmas Exchange. Three telephones are being put in the Christmas Exchange for the convenience of the public so that information may be readily obtainable at all times.

From the Canada Boxes of Vancouver a donation of hampers, specially decorated for Christmas and bearing the name of the Gyro Club, have been obtained. This kind gift has been duly acknowledged and a sample hamper was put on display at the meeting yesterday.

CHATHAM WOMAN GIVES AFFIDAVIT

Swears to Facts Before Notary of How Fruit-a-tives Rid Her of Sick-Headaches and Stomach Trouble in Less than a Month.

So others may also benefit, Mrs. Ethel Duff, 135 Wellington St. E., Chatham, Ontario, generously tells how she got relief from stomach trouble and sick-headaches. Mrs. Duff kindly consented to swear to her statement before a notary in order that everyone could have absolute proof of its truth. She states,—

"I was chronically bothered with stomach trouble which brought on sick-headaches six days out of seven. Nothing I did or took to relieve them did them any good.

"Then I read about Fruit-a-tives and started taking them. In less than a month my stomach trouble had gone and I had no more headaches. I gave Fruit-a-tives to my husband who also suffered from stomach trouble. They helped him an awful lot. My mother, too, found that Fruit-a-tives relieved her of rheumatic trouble."

In every part of Canada are men and women who thank Fruit-a-tives for lasting relief from stomach-trouble, constipation, indigestion and kindred ailments. That is the reason why, today, Fruit-a-tives is the largest selling remedy of its kind in Canada. If you do not feel up to the mark, try Fruit-a-tives. They'll help you gain new health, happiness, vitality.

have been taken care of is sufficient to materially reduce the 1936 budget by possibly more than a mill and a half.

Alderman Brown explained that he still felt that the city should not leave the meeting of its sinking fund requirements to chance. The city's credit in the financial markets of the world should be kept intact by systematic maintenance of the sinking fund installments. After all, the sinking fund was created to retire debts, and every effort should be made by the city to meet its obligation by budgeting for the amount of the installment, he declared.

ALDERMAN P. R. BROWN

ANOTHER SURPLUS

Another bright picture is expected to be presented to the city at the close of the year, when the annual financial statement is prepared. A substantial surplus in the general revenue of the city, and a big saving in expenditures, are expected to supplement the surplus in the sinking funds.

While no figures are available at the present moment, it is known that there has been a big improvement in the situation since the last figures were struck off early in October. At that time, the anticipated surplus, it was understood, was in the neighborhood of an amount equivalent to more than one mill on the tax rate.

CANADIAN IS WHEAT KING

"Naturally, we are proud of Allsop, as we are of many Canadian farmers," Craig said. "He has been a consistent winner at lesser exhibitions, and last year won first with his entry of hard Winter wheat at the international."

The grain weighed 66.6 pounds per bushel—a fraction of a pound under the all-time record of 67 pounds, set in 1932 by his neighbor, Trelle. Peterson's reserve championship grain of the hard Winter variety weighed 66.5 pounds.

HONORS FOR ALBERTA

EDMONTON, Dec. 3 (CP).—Capture of the international wheat championship, at the Chicago fair, Saturday, by J. B. Allsop, of Wembley, Alberta, is the eighth time the prize has come to Alberta in eleven years, and the fifth time to the Wembley district.

Allsop has his farm near that of the famous Herman Trelle, who has produced four world championship wheat samples, but the new champion has always operated entirely independently of the former wheat king.

John Allsop and his father, S. B. Allsop, have been consistent exhibitors in seed grains for a number of years, but their chief wins always have been in Winter wheat, until this year. Twice Allsop took first in Winter wheat, last year at Chicago, and the year before at Toronto Royal.

The Allsops originally came from England, but have been in Alberta for some years, the father farming for some time near Calgary, before moving about eight years ago to the Wembley district, where he bought a half-section of land from Herman Trelle's brother-in-law. Father and son have been prominent not only in seed grain production, but also as successful mixed farmers, having a good herd of Holsteins and other stock. Mrs. Allsop, Sr., took a lively interest in the seed grain exhibits of her husband and son, before her death a year ago.

Allsop is only twenty years old, and this was his second effort at Chicago. In 1932, he came fifth in hard Spring wheat there.

fort to counteract any unfavorable publicity they may have received.

Each of the four witnesses, all former grocery or meat department managers, said it was impossible under the chain store system, to balance stock without cheating either the company or the public. P. L. Wood, a former Stop and Shop manager in Montreal, said he tried to be honest, both to his company and the public for seven months, and rolled up a stock shortage of $485 that led to his dismissal. This shortage represented less than 2 per cent on the store sales, and was due, Wood said, to inadequate credits from headquarters for wastages, shortages and breakages.

A second Montreal witness, Fred Rice, formerly a meat department manager for Dominion Stores, said he found it impossible to maintain the 33 per cent profit demanded by headquarters and not cheat the public.

SHORT-WEIGHT BREAD

George Pace, for twelve years a Dominion Store manager in New Toronto, said he was dismissed for complaining before a meeting of managers and managers-in-training of receiving short-weight bread for resale.

Pace said he was threatened by Dominion Store officials a few days after his dismissal, when they learned he was thinking of opening a store of his own in New Toronto. He was told, he said, they would "cut my feet from under me and hound me out of town." He did not open the store.

All former grocery managers admitted receiving bulletins from chain headquarters instructing them to give sixteen ounces to the pound. But they claimed the instructions, although sometimes heeded, were useless in the light of the inadequate credits for wastages.

HAD GIFT FOR ORGANIZATION

Mrs. R. S. Day Passes Away After Many Years of Public Activities

A woman well known for years as a leader in philanthropic welfare and patriotic undertakings of all kinds passed away on Sunday with the death at the Jubilee Hospital of Mrs. Patience Day, widow of Robert Scott Day. She had been ill for several weeks.

The funeral will take place this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, at the Church of Our Lord, Reformed Episcopal, Rev. A. deB. Owen, assisted by Rev. T. E. Rowe, D.D., officiating. The remains will be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation. It is requested that no flowers be sent. Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Born in Ireland, Mrs. Day came to Victoria with her husband and one small daughter, forty-three years ago, and had lived here practically ever since. Previously she had lived for a short time in South Africa, where she went from Ireland to be married. Even then, as a young matron, she had shown something of her singular ability in organization and executive capacity, one of the efforts with which her name is recalled in this connection being a society, formed in the African diamond field district, for indigent women.

PUBLIC WORKER

In Victoria she soon identified herself with various welfare activities, one of the first offices she held being that of president of the Local Council of Women from 1908 to 1912. During this time she was appointed delegate from the women of this organization throughout British Columbia to the International Council of Women Convention, held in England in 1909. She numbered among her friends the Countess of Aberdeen, the founder of the organization, and was one of those actively associated with the reception and entertainment of the venerable international president when she visited here many years ago.

Another of the organizations with which she promptly identified herself was the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, in which she was an active worker from the time of its inception for many years, and the Women's Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital, the King's Daughters, the Next-of-Kin Association, and the Guild of Health were among the other societies which at one time or another claimed her energies. In all these she exhibited a fine administrative and organizing capacity, at the same time bringing a kindly and human understanding to bear in her contacts both with her colleagues and the people whom they sought to help.

Mr. Day, at the time of his death, was president of the Jubilee Hospital Board, and in commemoration of his interest in the institution and the nursing home she inaugurated the Robert S. Day Memorial Scholarship, being present each year at the graduation exercises to present the award in person to the winner.

EXACTING WORK

The Next-of-Kin Association was perhaps one of the most exacting of the many self-imposed duties which she undertook. Founded during the war to look after the wives, children, and other near relatives of men who were serving or had served overseas, this claimed almost her entire time for some years, and in the task she showed the most unflagging devotion.

In recent years she had concentrated her energies principally in the Guild of Health work.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Cockburn, Victoria; Mrs. R. G. Dundas, Los Angeles, and Mrs. W. C. Thackray, Kingston, Ont.; three sons, William S. Day, Vancouver; Richard W. Day, Los Angeles, and Robert Day, Santa Barbara; thirteen grandchildren and one brother, James Hutchinson Swanton, Saffron Walden, Essex.

BUSINESSMEN PAY SILENT TRIBUTES

Chamber of Commerce Honor the Late John R. Matson and the Late J. Keith Wilson

Silent tributes were paid to two of the city's prominent men, who died last week, one being John R. Matson, president of The Colonist, the other J. Keith Wilson, former banker and real estate operator, when the Victoria Chamber of Commerce met, at luncheon, in Spencer's dining-room, yesterday.

B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Times, in speaking of Mr. Matson, said he was a very efficient businessman, closely aligned with welfare movements of the city, and a fine sportsman. He had many friends, Mr. Nicholas added.

For many years Mr. Wilson was closely connected with the business life of the community, and was long identified with the Board of Trade, the speaker said.

George I. Warren, secretary of the chamber, was instructed to write a letter of sympathy to the families of these two men, expressing the regrets of the organization and extending its condolences.

some exceptions. The hop of 3,197 miles from Honolulu to Suva, Fiji, will be broken by a stop at Fanning Island, 1,000 miles out from Honolulu and a bit to the east of the direct line course.

TO TOUCH NEW ZEALAND

Again, instead of flying from Suva to Brisbane, Lieutenant Ulm plans to fly directly south to Auckland and from there to Sydney; his ultimate goal. The distances from Suva to Auckland to Sydney are each slightly more than 1,300 miles, and easily negotiable by comparison with the first two legs.

Ulm's ship, a British Airspeed Envoy, has a top speed of 150 miles and a cruising speed of 130 miles. It is powered with two 240-horsepower Linx motors, which consume about twenty-eight gallons of fuel hourly.

Your Druggist Guarantees Vicks Cold-Control Plan

Backed by Makers of Vicks VapoRub in the Confidence That the Plan Will Help to Reduce the Number, Duration and Dangers of Colds

AMAZING NEW PRODUCT

Here is good news to those who catch cold easily. The makers of Vicks VapoRub have developed a Plan for Better Control of Colds. It is a practical Plan—workable in every home. And so confident are Vick Chemists that the Plan will help to reduce the number, duration and dangers of colds, that they have authorized every druggist to make the following guaranteed trial offer!

Your Druggist's Guarantee

Get a bottle of the new Vicks preparation—Vicks Va-tro-nol, for nose and throat—the new aid in preventing colds . . . and a jar of Vicks VapoRub—the modern method of treating colds. Use as directed in Vicks Plan—fully explained in each package. Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Here, briefly, is how Vicks Plan works!

To Help Prevent Colds

Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition you know is apt to be followed by a cold—such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy, ill-ventilated rooms, public places — sudden changes in temperature, etc.

Then—at that first nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—quick!—Vicks Va-trol-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, it helps to avoid many colds entirely.

To Help End a Cold

If a cold has developed—massage throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. VapoRub's direct two-way action—by Stimulation and Inhalation—brings soothing comfort and relief.

VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster. And its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are inhaled direct to inflamed air-passages. This long-continued double direct attack through the night loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Va-tro-nol every few hours as needed to relieve clogged nasal passages. This gives you full twenty-four-hour treatment, and without the risks of constant internal "dosing" which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

Little Bedtime Stories

Peter Rabbit's Heart Almost Stops Beating

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Of all the little people on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest there is none more timid than Peter Rabbit unless it be his cousin, Jumper the Hare. It is said of them that they will try to run away from their own shadows. Of course they never do such a foolish thing as that, and people say it only to show how very, very timid they are.

Now Peter Rabbit had been where he could see the terrible flying giant chase Blacky the Crow, and after that Peter was very content to stay in the dear Old Brier Patch. In fact, it would have taken a great deal to induce Peter to so much as poke his wobbly little nose outside. He even wished that the brambles were thicker. His long ears were all the time listening for the sound of that terrible humming, and he spent hours and hours gazing up in the blue, blue sky watching for that dreadful giant. He just had a feeling that that stranger was bound to return.

But the days went by and nothing happened, so that Peter was beginning to forget, as is the way with the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. It was so long since he had visited his favorite patch of sweet clover that it seemed to him he simply must get at least a bite.

"Don't do it, Peter," advised Mrs. Peter, who is even more timed than Peter himself. "You stay right here in the dear Old Brier Patch. I wouldn't leave it for all the sweet clover that ever grew."

Now Peter wouldn't for the world admit to little Mrs. Peter that he is timid. He swelled himself up and looked as big and brave as he could. "Pooh," he exclaimed, "there's nothing to be afraid of now. I want some of that sweet clover and I'm going to have some of that sweet clover. No giant that ever was can stop me."

Then trying to look as brave as his boastful tongue made him seem,

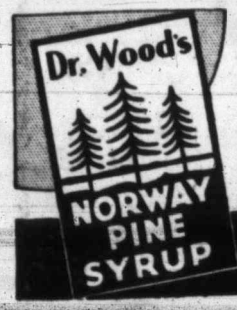

Peter left the dear Old Brier Patch and hopped straight over to his favorite patch of sweet clover.

Peter left the dear Old Brier Patch and hopped straight over to his favorite patch of sweet clover. Just as he reached it he heard something that made him sit up suddenly, with his long ears pointed straight up to the sky. It was a humming sound, a faint, far away humming. At first Peter wasn't sure whether it was made by Busy Bee close at hand or whether it was something far away. So he listened and looked and in a few minutes he knew. The humming had grown too loud to be made by Busy Bee, and way off in the sky was a speck which grew larger and larger as Peter watched. Peter's heart almost stopped beating. It was the terrible flying giant. Without so much as a single bite of that sweet clover, Peter started for the dear Old Brier Patch, lipperty-lipperty-lip. He was sure his last day had come.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Twenty-Second Birthday of Victoria West United Church Marked

A two-day observance of the twenty-second anniversary of the opening of Victoria West United Church was concluded, last night, when an informal concert was presented and a social hour enjoyed, at the church. Rev. W. R. Brown, pastor, gave an account of a recent trip to England.

On Sunday, two special services were held in the church. In the morning Mr. Brown officiated, giving the second in a series of sermons in answer to the question as to the reason and the value of the world's present suffering. The general title was "Why Are All Good People Allowed to Suffer While the Evil Ones Go Free?"

The music included an anthem by the choir and a vocal solo by George Guy.

EVENING SPEAKER

In the evening Rev. F. W. Anderson, formerly of St. Andrew's Church, Nanaimo, and now supplying Esquimalt United Church, was guest speaker. Mrs. Gordon Mitchell was soloist and the choir rendered special music.

At last night's gathering, an informal concert was presented, during which Mr. Brown spoke on "Merrie England and Mighty London." Artists appearing on the programme were Miss Gertrude McDonald Partridge, monologist; Miss Phyllis Deaville, soprano; Joseph Almond, baritone; Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, pianist; Miss Faith Caley, pianist, and Miss Kathleen Hole, pianist.

With his sparkling Irish wit adding a humorous touch to his address, Mr. Brown kept his audience enthralled for thirty minutes with a generous account of London and England. He told how England was fighting her way back to normalcy.

BRIEF HISTORY

The speaker gave a brief history of London, showing that it was a settlement long before the Romans came to England. He declared the great fire of 1666 was one of the best things that had ever happened to London, in that it cleared the city of the plague that was killing thousands.

"A humorous touch is seen in the historic statement that the fire extended from Pudding Lane to Pie Avenue," remarked Mr. Brown.

He gave an interesting account of the various points of interest he visited while in London and other parts of England.

DEBATERS TAKE OPPOSITE VIEWS

Gyro Club Members and Guests Enjoy Addresses by Visiting University Men

At the luncheon of the Gyro Club yesterday, in the Empress Hotel, members of that organization and representatives of various other service clubs of the city had the opportunity of hearing the two Old Country debaters, Robertson Crichton, of Oxford, and Leslie T. Jackson, of Cambridge, who last evening competed with two local debaters.

The visitors were heard at the luncheon gathering in very happy moods. Mr. Jackson selected as his subject what he described as "False contentment and smug security." His traveling companion took the opposite view when called upon to speak and described his subject as "Contentment and security."

The former represented as the means of emerging from the present economic conditions and the avoiding of a future return of such a condition the enactment of laws to control the economic field. Mr. Crichton took a very antagonistic stand against the views expressed by Mr. Jackson, and enunciated the new movement which was much in evidence in the Old Land, looking to the establishment of an equilibrium which would avoid in future the situation that had been faced in the late crisis.

BECAME SARCASTIC

To the amusement of all, including Mr. Jackson, Mr. Crichton became very sarcastic with regard to his companion and his remarks attributed in part the differences alleged to exist between them covering the traditional policies of the two universities represented.

James A. Gibson, of this city, a Rhodes scholar who has had experience at both of the English universities, was asked to express the thanks of the gathering to the two debaters. In doing so, Mr. Gibson jocularly remarked that having noted the wide differences in the views expressed by the speakers, he was at a loss to understand how they were going to bring themselves together to combat the arguments that would be put forward by John Gough and himself at the evening debate.

Council Passes Condolence Vote

A standing vote of condolence to the relatives of the late John R. Matson was passed by the City Council, last night.

Alderman James Adam, who moved the resolution of condolence, spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Matson was held, and of his prowess in various branches of sport activities.

Jones had occasion to reprimand his wife. "I think," he said, soothingly, "that you fib a little occasionally."

She immediately became indignant. "Well, I think it's a wife's duty."

"What's duty?"

"Yes, to speak well of her husband occasionally."

Council Fails to Endorse Demands For More Relief

The City Council, last night, decided not to adopt the resolutions of the joint committee on unemployment relief, in view of the fact that it would involve the city and home-owners in more expense.

Request that a holiday be given those on relief so they could attend with the delegation which is to meet the Provincial Government shortly, and place before it demands for increased relief, was referred to the relief committee with power to act.

The question of making provision for the housing and feeding of delegates from the Mainland, was referred to the relief committee with power to act.

ARREST FOLLOWS DAMAGE TO CARS

Police Apprehend Man After Three Automobiles Had Been Harmed Near Hudson's Bay Store

Three automobiles, belonging to employees of the Hudson's Bay Company and parked near the company store, were damaged early last evening, and police have arrested a man believed to be responsible.

One car was set afire, but the blaze was extinguished before extensive damage was done. Wiring in another car had been tampered with, and a window in a third automobile was smashed.

Reports from persons in the vicinity at the time the cars were damaged were that a man was seen running towards the parking space with a lighted torch or stick.

Detectives Henry Jarvis and Fearon Woodburn were assigned to the case, and shortly after midnight it was reported at headquarters that a man, giving the name of William Hugh Watkins, had been apprehended. He will probably appear in the city police court this morning.

The matter was left to President W. T. Straith and Secretary George I. Warren for consideration and action.

Ran Into Street Car—Geoffrey Barrick pleaded guilty in the city police court, yesterday, to driving to the common danger and was fined $20. The evidence of Thomas Miller, operator of the street car, was that while he was driving north on Government Street approaching the Fisgard Street crossing, the accused's automobile came towards him on the wrong side of the street and grazed the street car, doing damage to it.

Benefit Concert—The Firemen's Band will give a benefit concert, at the Lake Hill Community Hall, on Thursday at 8 p.m., to aid the Saanich Ward Two Non-Political Ratepayers' Association to obtain shoes and stockings for the children of the district. A very fine programme will be offered by the band, under the direction of Albert Rumsby. The assisting artists will be Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Noel, Mrs. Wood, Miss Griffen, Mr. Lillie and Mr. Lawrence Abbott.

Agreement Modified—The Government yesterday morified an agreement with the London & Western Trusts Limited, under which the latter manages and acts as agent for the University Endowment Lands, Point Grey. An annual retainer of $5,000 was cut to $2,000, and commissions of 7.5 per cent on sales, rentals and leases, cut to 5 per cent for the balance of the life of the agreement, to January, 1936. The firm, however, will be permitted to close its sales office in the area.

Fear Hunter Lost—After two unsuccessful searches, Provincial Police in the Hazelton area were organizing a third party yesterday to look for Arthur Michal, a German homesteader, who went hunting on November 23 and has not since been seen. Michal took up land four miles east of Doreen in 1909, where he homesteaded since. He is described as a man of about fifty-two years of age. Fears for his safety are entertained.

Milk Board Here—Hugh Davidson and other members of the new Lower Mainland Dairy Products Board conferred yesterday with Hon. K. C. MacDonald. The milk marketing scheme has yet to be approved at Ottawa in respect to Federal rights sought on the ground that some of the product is shipped out of the province. Registration of commercial producers in the Fraser Valley will be commenced by the board at once.

Hearing Remanded—Arthur Henry Dodd appeared in the city police court yesterday, and when charged with having deliberately broken a window in the City Hall, pleaded not guilty. Constable Mercer testified that the accused came to the police station and informed the officer on duty, "You'll have to put me in now." When asked to explain, he said he had broken a window pane in the City Hall. An examination showed that a piece of road-making material had been thrown through one of the windows. The damage was $4.35. The case was adjourned until today.

WOULD PRESERVE WILD LIFE HERE

Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe Tells Overseas Club of Need for Island Natural Park

Telling of the great work being done by the Royal Society for the Preservation of Fauna in the British Empire, and the 210 similar societies in Canada, Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe called on members of the Overseas League, at a meeting yesterday in Spencer's dining-room, to lend their support to such movements.

Sir Charles declared there was need for the establishment of a large natural park on the north end of Vancouver Island. In such a park, wild life would find a refuge and would not be in danger of extermination, the speaker explained. He added that a park of this nature on the Island would be an additional incentive for tourists to come here.

Long associated with the Royal Society for the Preservation of Fauna in the British Empire, and having served the British Government in many countries of the world, Sir Charles was able to tell the Overseas League many interesting characteristics about wild life, and a number of unusual stories.

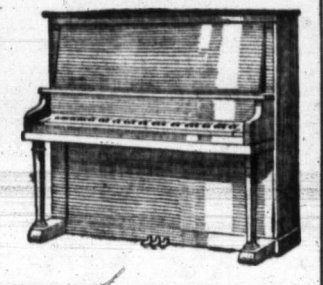

Although 210 societies are now interested in preserving wild life in Canada, the speaker explained, there was an appealing lack of cooperation between the bodies. Before any extensive work, such as the establishment of many natural parks in the Dominion could be done, these societies must amalgamate in some manner, he said.

MORELIA, Michoacan, Mexico, Dec. 3 (AP).—General Benigno Serratos, Governor of Michoacan, and his Mexican pilot, Charles Brayton, were killed today in the crash of an airplane near Ario de Rosales.

Philippines In Grip of New Gales

MANILA, Dec. 3 (AP).—Typhoons struck tonight in three areas of the Philippine Archipelago at once, climaxing a season of storms which already have claimed more than 400 dead and missing, and untold damage to structures, crops and public works.

One storm struck at Northern Luzon, the island on which Manila is located. Another assailed the island of Palawan, coming in without warning out of agitated China Sea. A third was brewed in the island-strewn Pacific within striking distance of Samar, the farthest east of the Central Philippine.

Duchess of Kent in Her Wedding Gown

This picture shows the beautiful Grecian Princess Marina posed in her bridal gown, before her marriage to Prince George on November 29. The picture was made by Meerson, the celebrated Parisian photographer, and obtained from Harper's Bazaar. It was created by Molyneux, the famous fashion designer of Paris. It is of silver and white lame in English rose pattern. It is cut on the bias and clings softly to her figure. The long bell sleeves and the capuchon decolletage are other features that show to even greater advantage the beauty of the bride. A long tulle veil cascades from the diamond-studded tiara and a priceless diamond necklace is worn. The princess changed her coiffure four hours before the wedding.—Photo copyright by Harper's Bazaar.

CATHEDRAL

At the weekly meeting of the Christ Church Cathedral A.Y.P.A., the members congregated in the auditorium to hear an illustrated lecture on the West Indies. On returning to the guild room, the business was completed, after which the members adjourned to the gymnasium, where an interesting programme of indoor sports was enjoyed. Later, refreshments were served. The appeal made for second-hand clothing for the Columbia Coast Mission received a hearty response and many large bundles were received. Members are reminded of the telephone bridge to be held during the week of December 7 to 15, and as many as possible are asked to have one or more tables at home. It is preferable that guests should be other than Cathedral A.Y.P.A. members.

Daily Bridge Question No. 42

Your partner, playing against a contract of three no-trump, has opened the five of clubs. North plays the six.

Five of clubs led.

♠ J 9 6 3
♥ J 10 9 2

♣ J 3

Answers to these questions must be delivered, mailed or telephoned, the same day as question is published, and addressed to Macan & Mitchell Bridge Studios, 221-2 Pemberton Building.

Answer to Question No. 41

Having exhausted the adverse trumps and ruffed the third round of hearts, the club king should be led from North. If West follows suit a second club should be led, and if East plays small, the nine finessed. If West wins this trick he must return a spade, heart, or possibly a club. If a spade, South probably makes two spade tricks, if a heart a discard in spades is provided and if a club this trick is won by South and a spade discard permitted on the lead of the thirteenth club. Should East cover the second lead of clubs with the jack or queen, the ace is played by South and the nine returned, setting up a winning club in the North hand for a spade discard by South. There is no defence to this defence, provided West does not hold four diamonds, an almost impossible contingency.

MUSTARD'S the thing for that COUGH or COLD!

● It does not pay to take any chances with so-called "simple" coughs and colds! Fill the bathtub with piping hot water and add three tablespoonsful of Colman's Mustard mixed first to a thin paste. The old saying is "Leave your cold in a mustard bath!" Soak and relax; perspire and tingle. Then a good rub down, jump into bed and sweat out the poisons. A grand old remedy! If more convenient, wrap yourself up warm and soak your feet for 15 minutes in a pail of steaming hot water with 1 tablespoonful of Colman's—and get to bed. And you can rely on the old-fashioned mustard plasters for quick relief for chest colds.

TRIES TO DUMP SURPLUS STOCK

New French Premier Anxious to Empty Country's Bins and Cellars

PARIS, Dec. 3 (AP). — France's new Premier, Pierre-Etienne Flandin, today tackled the problem of emptying the country's overstocked wheat bins and wine cellars as a first step towards economic revival under the programme by which he hopes to get the French mind off politics.

The Cabinet ratified a plan to distill about 125,000,000 gallons of cheap wine into alcohol, which the Government will buy for use as fuel and sell again at a loss. The deficit is to be covered by taxes on the wine trade.

To deplete the surplus wheat stocks, the grain will be denatured and sold abroad for animal feed. The Government's loss in purchasing such wheat is to be covered by milling and other taxes, but the Premier has promised that the price of bread will be reduced by about 25 per cent.

SEEKING AN OUTLET

An outlet for export goods caught in the trade stagnancy of a world depression is also being sought.

Paul Ranchandeau, Commerce Minister, left for Russia today to negotiate a new commercial accord with the Soviets providing greater exchange of goods. A French colonial-economic conference, having the same general aim, was scheduled to open on Monday.

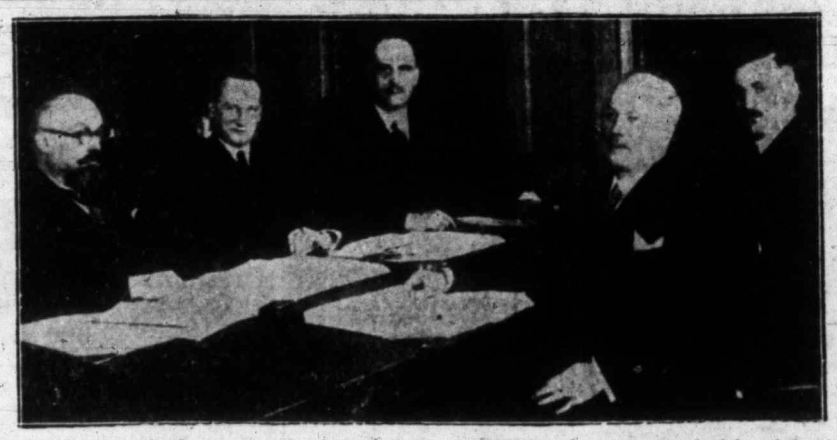

Economic revival is the war cry Flandin sounded on his first appearance in Parliament, and his programme has three main points:

1. To fight against depression and unemployment.
2. To revive trade and to keep the country's finances solid.
3. To rejuvenate and reform the State.

Above all, the Premier has insisted upon the necessity of voting the 1935 budget as soon as possible, pointing at the same time to France's colonial empire as a fertile field for reviving the nation's industries.

HAVANA, Dec. 3 (AP).—Twelve persons were wounded, Saturday, in the explosion of as many bombs, during and after the rush shopping hour, in the city's business district.

Rulers of the Saar Until January

Above are shown the five men appointed by the League of Nations, who govern the destinies of the rich Saar basin. These men govern until January, 1935, when a plebiscite will decide whether the basin will have a continuance of that rule in a semi-autonomous form, whether there will be union with France, or whether there will be union with Germany. Left to right, M. Kossman, representing the Saar; Geoffrey Knox, Great Britain; M. Morize, France; M. d'Ehrenrooth, Finland, and M. Zorioic, Jugoslavia.

SILVER SLIPPERS By Temple Bailey

CHAPTER L

In a week Joan was to marry him! She would go through with it now, although more and more she shrank from it. Drew was unstable, she could not deceive herself, yet it was too late now to draw back. She knew the exact moment when her doubts had crystallized—that moment with Giles Armiger in Paris when he had told her that he loved her.

Dinner that night was served in the refectory, a long room, lighted only by a few candles and the afterglow framed by its arched windows. It was towards the end of the dinner that one of the brothers announced that a gentleman wished to speak to Mr. Hallam.

Drew rose, "Did he give his name?"

He had not. He was waiting in the little office.

Drew went out. After his departure, Rose and Nancy and Mrs. Carter kept up, as usual, a sprightly conversation. Joan was quiet. She had a sense of the strangeness of the moment. She sat opposite one of the arched windows and looked straight into the heart of the setting sun. With its gold and crimson it seemed a gateway into a shining future. She wondered if she and Drew would go through that gate and find their Paradise. Surely there would be no flaming sword to bar them out.

They lingered long over their coffee, but Drew did not return. At last Joan rose from the table and went alone into the garden. She sat again on the rim of the fountain, and trailed her fingers in the quiet pool. The doves had flown to the belfry and settled themselves for the night. A few faint stars shone overhead, but in the sky was lingering the rose and gold and green of the afterglow.

Joan heard a step on the cloistered porch and turned, expecting Drew. But it was not Drew. It was the brother to whom she had spoken in the afternoon and he handed her a little parcel, "It was left for you."

She asked, "Who left it?"

"The gentleman who came to see Mr. Hallam."

The brown-clad brother went away and Joan opened the parcel. Within she found a tiny carved ship, gay with purple and crimson and gold. There was no card—no clue by which she might trace the giver.

The night came on and the moon rose. Joan still waited, thinking Drew would join her. She wondered what was keeping him. She wondered, too, about the man who had sent the boat. Why had he come, and what business would he have with Drew?

* * * * *

The little reception room of the monastery was 2a bare place, with high windows which framed at the moment oblongs of rose-lighted sky. Giles was standing at one of the windows and turned as Drew entered.

For a few moments they faced each other in silence, then Drew said: "You wished to see me?"

"Yes. Shall we be interrupted here? I should like to speak to you alone."

"We can go outside."

Drew led the way to a gate which was opened by one of the brown-clad brothers. Beyond the gate was a little grove where seats had been set about for such wayfarers as wished to rest and look at the view. Through a cleared space in the dark cedars was a vista of the peaks of the mountain range, bathed now in the mists of evening, and sweeping back toward the sunset like the waves of a glorious sea.

Standing by a bench, with his hand on the back of it, Giles came at once to the subject in hand. "I am afraid you will not like what I have to say. But I must say it. I want you to release Joan Dudley from her promise to marry you."

Drew's laugh was insolent: "Are you mad?"

"No. I have been hearing things about you in Paris, Hallam—things I am sure Joan doesn't know."

"Why should she know them? My past is my own. My future is Joan's. You are wasting your time to talk about it, Armiger." Drew was holding on to his temper, but his face was flushed.

"Your past is not your own, unless the woman you are to marry is willing to forgive it. The things I have heard, Joan Dudley would never forgive."

Drew's voice had a fierce note: "Of what, specifically, are you accusing me?"

"Of a gambling record that is not, to say the least—pretty—and as for your affairs—with women——" Giles stopped there, significantly.

Drew took a step forward. "You dare say this to me?" he demanded, furiously.

"I dare say anything that will help to save Joan. I am her friend. I am more than that. I love her . . ."

"I refuse to discuss her with you," sharply. If you love her, that is none of my affair. She loves me. In a week she will be my wife."

"She will not be your wife in a week."

"What do you mean?"

"She shall not marry you, if I can help it. Either you must tell her of your past, or I shall do it."

Drew, flaming, lifted his arm, menacing. But Giles did not move. "I know you'd like to knock me down. In the old days we would have settled the whole thing on a field of honor. In modern times we are less spectacular. We might fight it out with our fists, but I see no reason for that. I see only one thing, that if Joan marries you, she must do it with her eyes open . . ."

"Do you think if you told her, she would believe you?"

"I think she would . . ."

Drew threw back at him an accusation: "You want her for yourself."

"God knows that I do," said Giles with earnestness, "but if I can never have her, I shall still do my best to keep her from you."

For a moment there was silence. The wind had risen and the trees about them creaked and rustled. The tops of the mountains were bathed in pearl, the scene was spectral, almost sinister.

When Drew spoke finally, he was sullen. "If I promise to tell her, will that satisfy you?"

"Yes. But I must have, of course, some assurance that she knows everything."

"What assurance?"

"If she breaks the engagement, there must be an immediate announcement in the daily press. If she does not break it, I shall write to her, giving her all the facts, and the proofs——"

Drew's laugh was not pleasant. "I might checkmate you, Armiger. You wouldn't like to see your little friend humiliated. If she throws me over, I'll run away with—Rose Carter."

Giles gave a sharp exclamation. "You cad . . .!"

It was then that Drew struck him. In another moment they were struggling under the trees. They were well matched. Giles had youth on his side, but he was slight beside Drew's bulk. They were both mad with anger, primitive. . . . They breathed heavily, and their scuffling feet scattered the leaves. This way and that—back and forth . . . a pair of brutes. . . .

Suddenly, with extraordinary strength, Giles flung Drew off. "Oh, we are—beasts," he said, "and she is so high above us."

He stood there with hanging head. Drew whipped a handkerchief out of his pocket and held it to his face. "You've given me an ugly scratch," he said, "how am I going to explain it?"

"That," said Giles, very pale, "is the least I have to think about. It is Joan's happiness, Joan's future which weighs on my heart."

"I'll make a bargain with you," Drew said, out of a short silence, "if I follow your preposterous programme—and if she gives me up, you've got to keep off the whole thing for a couple of years. . . ."

"Keep off?"

"Promise not to ask her to marry you until then. I'm not going to have the whole world saying she jilted me for you. . . ."

"Why should I promise?"

"Because, if you don't, I swear I'll marry Rose at once. Then they could say I jilted Joan."

Again silence, then Giles said, "I promise. For two years I'll keep away from her."

"On your word of honor?"

"I've said it," sharply.

Hallam gave a short laugh, "Of course your word is your bond. But you needn't think I've lost her yet. She loves me . . . and I can show her new worlds. You would limit her to narrow things . . . your old sea-town, your island . . . what would she know of the joy of living?"

For a moment Giles did not speak, then he said with quickened breath, "Such a life as she and I would live together is beyond your knowing, Hallam."

They walked back to the gate. "You think you've won," Drew said, "but you needn't think she isn't going to suffer. She cares for me a lot."

"Better to suffer now, than in the years to come," was Giles' response.

The two men parted at the gate, and Giles made his way to his car which was parked in the road which led back of the monastery. The driver had heard nothing of the struggle in the grove. And it was too dark for him to see the somewhat disheveled aspect of his passenger.

As Drew went in through the gate, the lantern shone on his face. The lay-brother spoke with solicitude. "You are hurt?"

"I stumbled," Drew lied, "and a branch struck me."

TWO HOLDUPS REPORTED

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3 (CP).—Fifty-six dollars was taken from a Vancouver Drug Company store on Davie Street, and $75 from the Broadway Fruit Market, 1400 block, Broadway, in two holdups, Saturday.

"Sandy, I'm very sorry to see you like that."

"Ah, weel, it's a' for the good o' the cause," replied the delinquent, happily. "Ye see, meenister, it's through these subscriptions. I've been through the parish collectin' funds, and at every house they made me ha'e a wee drappie!"

"Every house? But, surely, Sandy, some of my people are teetotallers?"

"Aye, there are, but I wrote to them."

MARINE, RAIL and AIR

Establishment of Empire-Wide Mail Services Started

British Postmaster-General Takes First Big Step to Dispatch Mails by Air—Existing Postage Charges Abolished

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Postmaster-General has taken the first big step towards establishment of Empire-wide airmail services, which will eventually supersede all other forms of transport of urgent mail and passenger traffic. That is the meaning of his announcements of readiness to dispatch all fully-paid letters and postcards within the United Kingdom by any internal air service which operates regularly and punctually, and of important reductions in air postage rates on the Empire routes.

From November 17, when the first batch of mail send under the new scheme left Croydon, for Africa, India and the East, all of the varying postage charges to Empire destinations reached by the existing Imperial Airways services are abolished and flat rates substituted. More than twenty different air postage rates disappear. The new charges are 6d a half ounce for letters to all destinations where the present charge equals or exceeds that amount, and 3d a half ounce where it is at present lower than 6d. The flat-rate principle, which has been demanded for years past by airmail supporters, is thus conceded; the ultimate step in the process of reducing airmail charges must be the carriage of all first-class mail without any surcharge whatsoever—namely, on the basis of present charges, at the rate of 1½d for each letter carried within the Empire, and of 2½d for every letter addressed to a foreign destination.

CUT IN HALF

From England to India (Karachi, Delhi, Allahabad, Calcutta, Rangoon), Malaya, Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, Nyasaland, Zanzibar, Northern and Southern Rhodesia and South Africa, the charge is now 6d the half ounce. The 3d rate applies to the Sudan, Palestine and Transjordania; exceptionally it applies to Egypt, Syria, Iraq and Persia. Corresponding flat rates for postcards are 2d to destination in the nearer, and 3d to destinations in the more distant, zone. To Malaya and South Africa rates of 1s and 10d, respectively, are reduced to 6d—the biggest advantage gained under the new rates.

Inside Great Britain and Northern Ireland the Postoffice has adopted a free hand to decide when letters will benefit by aerial sending. In future, letters or postcards will travel by the fastest available route—air, sea or rail—without extra cost or trouble to the senders. New contracts for the air carriage of mails are announced. Hillman's Air Lines are to operate a daily service in each direction, linking London, Liverpool, Belfast and Glasgow. All first-class mail on hand in London between the closing of the night mail in the evening and the departure of the airplane in the morning, will travel the air way. The service saves up to eighteen hours. It began on December 1. Further, the Postmaster-General has agreed with Highland Airways for the continuance in a more comprehensive form of the mail service which that company has worked all the Summer. In future, all first-class mail between Inverness and the Orkney mainland, and also betweeen Wick and district, will go by air, the services being timed to connect with the railway services between the north of Scotland and the rest of Great Britain.

MARKET PROMISED

Important extensions of the airmail services to other towns, leading eventually to a complete network of services working all the year round, are foreshadowed. Undoubtedly the new development will foster the establishment and growth of other aerial services within the country. There should be benefit to British civil aviation as well as to the public in the working out of new schemes. At last appears the prospect of a home market for the many fast and economical commercial airplanes that British firms have designed and built in recent years.

HAS RETIRED ON SUPERANNUATION

Superintendent of Kettle Valley Division, C.P.R., Was Forty-Four Years in Service

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—C. A. Cotterell, assistant general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway on the Coast, today announced the retirement on superannuation December 1 of T. H. Crump from the position of superintendent of the Kettle Valley Division at Penticton. Mr. Crump is being successed by W. J. McLean, formerly assistant superintendent at North Bend.

Thomas Huntly Crump served the company more than forty-four years in various parts of the West. Starting humbly as a laborer at Medicine Hat in 1890, he rose steadily, first as a storeman and clerk at Medicine Hat and Canmore, Alta., and in 1891 as a trainman on the Revelstoke Division. He was made a conductor in 1897, and in 1906 became a trainmaster on the British Columbia District. June 15, 1925, he became superintendent at Penticton of the Kettle Valley Railway, taken over in 1932 as a division of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

William John McLean entered Canadian Pacific Railway service at Broadview as a wiper in 1903, became a fireman at Moose Jaw the same year, and was promoted to engineer at Moose Jaw in 1907. He was road foreman of engines at Medicine Hat from September, 1915, to November, 1916, and trainmaster at that terminal from June, 1917, to January, 1920, and assistant superintendent from 1927 to the end of 1929, when he came to Field to take over the same position. He was made assistant superintendent at North Bend in 1932.

To discharge freight for local consignees and load apples for the homeward passage, the Furness Line motorship Pacific Exporter, Captain C. E. Holland, is due alongside Ogden Point Piers at 7 o'clock this morning, King Brothers stated last evening. The Exporter is inbound from the United Kingdom by way of Panama and California ports, and will be here some hours before proceeding to Mainland ports to complete business.

The Exporter has five passengers aboard, one for Victoria and four for Vancouver. Miss Nita E. Dowler will leave the liner here.

The Empress of Japan, from ports in the Far East, is due at William Head at 9 o'clock this morning, according to advices received from Captain L. D. Douglas at the local office of Canadian Pacific Steamships, yesterday afternoon. This should bring the big white liner alongside Rithet Piers about 10 o'clock. The Japan has several hundred passengers aboard, a number of whom will leave the ship here, as well as mails and cargo for the port.

On her way to Australia via Hawaii, Fiji and New Zealand, the Canadian-Australasian Ss. Niagara, Captain T. V. Hill, will be here for a short while tomorrow afternoon. She is due at the local dock at 4 o'clock, her sailing hour being 5:30 o'clock. Passengers will go aboard the ship here, and mails and cargo will be taken on before she clears for Honolulu, her first port of call.

LUMBER SHIPS

Two British freighters were loading lumber at Ogden Point Piers yesterday. The Deebank, Captain J. K. Brooks, is taking 1,200,000 feet of lumber for the Orient, and the Filleigh, Captain Frederick Priestly, is taking 800,000 feet for the United Kingdom. It is likely both ships will get away for Port Alberni some time today.

First class minimum fares from Victoria, Vancouver and San Francisco to New Zealand and Australia have been reduced by the Union Company of New Zealand and the Canadian-Australasian Line.

Increasing trade between the Pacific Northwest Coast and the United Kingdom-Continent markets, is indicated by the number of additional sailings constantly being added to regular services. Canada Shipping Company, Vancouver, agents for the Interocean Line, report seven vessels due here within the next seven weeks, all to load cargoes for British and European ports.

New Altitude Mark Into Stratosphere Claimed by Flyer

Wiley Post Believes He Must Have Reached Height of 48,000 Feet—Climbed Approximately 1,000 Feet a Minute

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Dec. 3 (AP).—Wiley Post said this afternoon he had reached a height of 48,000 feet in his stratosphere hop this morning, breaking the airplane altitude record of 47,352.2 feet held by Lieut. Renato Donati, of Italy.

The famous globe flyer stated he had been unable to watch his altimetre because of being forced to work with the oxygen valve on his "stratosphere diving" suit, which jammed and released too much oxygen.

At first he declined to estimate his maximum altitude. But after calculating the time he was aloft and climbing appromixately 1,000 feet a minute, he declared he believed he reached about 48,000 feet.

CAN GO HIGHER

Post said he believed the Winnie Mae could go 10,000 feet higher, and that he would make another attempt in two or three days without waiting for a check of the barograph carried on today's flight.

With flying conditions perfect, the air was clear and cold when he took off at 8:10 a.m. (C.S.T.), in the second attempt in two days. Post made a fast take-off in his famed Winnie Mae and within a short time was out of sight.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Dec. 3 (AP).—Blown off his course, Wiley Post landed at the Municipal Airport, here, at 10:21 a.m. (C.S.T.) this morning, two hours and ten minutes after taking off from Bartlesville upon his long-delayed airplane altitude record attempt.

NOT QUITE SURE

With a compass, Post had no idea of his whereabouts when he landed, and pending a check of his barograph, was unable to say accurately how high he had gone into the stratosphere.

Post said he went "pretty high," but doubted whether he had broken the altitude record of 47,352.2 feet held by Lieut. Renato Donati, of Italy.

FINE COMEDY IS AT DOMINION

Francis Lederer, New Star, Has Important Role in "The Pursuit of Happiness"

At last it has been discovered what it was that lightened the long, cold and bitter Winter evenings for not always stern, harsh and forebearing Puritan forefathers!

It was the custom of bundling, the quaint, ingratiating and delightful form of courtship whose passing is much to be regretted by everyone, revived temporarily in Paramount's comedy, "The Pursuit of Happiness," starring Francis Lederer, and featuring Joan Bennett, Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland, now at the Dominion Theatre.

"The Pursuit of Happiness" affords a tailor-made role for the graceful good looks, appealing youth and style of Lederer, the young Czech actor, who has only been seen in one previous American picture, but who already rates starring roles.

At the outset of the picture, he is cast as one of the young Hessians, who, history tells us, were unwillingly conscripted into the service of His Majesty King George III, in his war against the rebelling Colonies.

When he gets here he learns that the colonists have declared their independence in a historic document that guarantees to every man, "the pursuit of happiness." In his quaint fashion he interprets the phrase to mean "running after happiness," and that so titillates his fancy that he straightaway deserts the British-

Dominion—Francis Lederer in "Pursuit of Happiness."

Empire—"The Blarney Stone," featuring Tom Walls.

Playhouse—Joan Crawford in "Sadie McKee."

CAPITOL THEATRE It took "The Merry Widow," now at the Capitol Theatre, to break the aloofness of the mysterious Greta Garbo. Garbo never had been on any motion picture set except her own during her career at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. But when Ernst Lubitsch began his glamorous production of "The Merry Widow," with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, and all Hollywood was talking about its huge settings, its spectacular beauty, its haunting music and its beautiful girls, Garbo visited the studios.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Although Ruby Keeler was in Hollywood most of the time that Al Jolson was working in the First National musical drama, "Wonder Bar," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, she never once appeared on the set to visit her husband. When Ruby, who is under contract to the same sudio, is working, Al, in turn never visits her to watch her performance.

EMPIRE THEATRE Prior to the production of "The Blarney Stone," now at the Empire Theatre, Tom Walls was busily occupied training April the Fifth to win the Derby. A. R. Rawlinson, the author of "Blarney Stone," informed the writer that he had a grand time following Tom Walls from the stables to the Downs, pinning him down to discuss the various points necessary to the story. After winning the classic with his horse, Tom Walls escaped to his cottage, in Selsea, for a much-needed rest.

Feud Smoldering Between German Factions

A new domestic crisis in Germany gives rise to reports that a clash is expected between the German Reichswehr (regular army) and Hitler's Black Shirt Storm Troops (S.S. or Schutz Staffel). The layout shows various types of uniformed men in Germany, all of whom are said to be fully armed. Upper left, Reichswehr troops. Lower left, Brown Shirts or Storm Troops. Upper right, special Black Shirt "guard." Lower right, Hitler, wearing brown shirt, and Lutzke, reputed the Nazi leader's righthand man, wearing the black of Hitler's special bodyguard.

SAANICH OPENS HAMPER FUND

Reeve Crouch Sends Out 2,000 Letters Seeking Provisions and Money

With several tons of provisions and $1,000 in cash as an objective, Saanich Municipality yesterday launched its campaign to care for between four and five hundred needy of the district this Christmas. Under the personal signature of Reeve William Crouch, 2,000 letters of appeal were sent out yesterday.

Reeve Crouch states that there is no overhead expense in the drive, and that the entire amount goes for relief in Saanich. All investigations will be made by the Saanich health nurses, and all hampers will be packed and supervised by ladies of Saanich Welfare Association.

SOLO CAMPAIGN

The reeve further points out to Saanich residents that the Gyro Club, in its campaign, is not accepting registrations from Saanich, and all Saanich registrations should be made through the Welfare Association or Saanich nurses.

In his letter, the reeve urges and requests the complete support of Saanich residents. It is a difficult undertaking for the municipality, and appeal can only be made through the mails and local newspapers, Reeve Crouch points out. Because the radio will be tied up about fourteen days before Christmas, it is unlikely any appeal can be made in that manner for Saanich needy.

Three new forest reserves were set aside by the Province, yesterday, comprising 351 square miles of timbered property, made up of a number of islands lying north of Johnstone Strait and in the vicinity of Knight Inlet. The reserves have been named Gilford, Harbledown and Broughton, respectively, after the chief island in each group.

The Gilford Forest Reserve contains 175 square miles in a group of islands lying between Tribune Channel and Knight Inlet, with Gilford Island as the chief island in the group.

The Harbledown Forest Reserve contains 109 square miles, being a group of islands lying between Knight Inlet and Johnstone Strait.

The Broughton Forest Reserve, with sixty-seven square miles, is bounded on the north by Sutlej Channel.

Your Health and Your Weight

PARENTS AND THE UNDERWEIGHT CHILD

By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

Some parents cannot understand why their youngster does not increase in weight despite the great care they take with his food.

They measure or estimate the number of calories or food units the youngster eats every day, the different amounts of the various kinds of food, see that the minerals and vitamins are sufficient and yet a neighbor's youngster of the same age puts on twice as much weight in a given time.

Now the first point to remember is the "build" of the child, the parent he resembles most and the weight of that parent when he was the child's age. It is often the case that the youngster is just following natural family tendencies, and despite good and sufficient food, the weight will increase only at a slow rate.

However, when a child is not making a satisfactory gain in weight and there is nothing in the family history to explain this lack of gain, then an effort should be made to find the reason for the deficiency in weight.

Now as food is what makes weight, the food intake should be investigated, and if this cannot possibly be the reason, then the matter of sleep should be the next point to examine. If the youngster remains up late at night, goes to picture shows which cause sleeplessness or exciting dreams, then this should be stopped. During sleep all the processes of the body quiet down in their work and so the cells of the body are not broken down as much or as rapidly. All the muscles which cover the body, and which really make up most of the body, relax or do but a very small amount of work during sleep, and so little weight is lost. It is thus an actual fact that sleep puts on or keeps on as much weight almost as does food.

Lack of sleep or rest, of course, means that the youngster is tired, and tiredness or fatigue is a common cause of underweight.

I have quoted Dr. Emerson's book before, "Nutrition and Growth in Children," in which he states, "Continued experience in the treatment of malnutrition or underweight leads me to the belief that there is no responsible cause for underweight more frequently overlooked than tiredness or fatigue." In a large group of undernourished children he found that sixty-four per cent kept late hours and fifty-four per cent were suffering from overfatigue due to extra work—music, dancing lessons and other outside activities.

If a child should naturally be of average weight from the family standpoint, is getting good nourishing food with plenty of sleep, and yet is not gaining weight, there must be something wrong, and very often it is due to some infection in the body. The infection may be due to infected tonsils, infected teeth, infected sinuses, infected ears, infected glands in the neck, chronic appendicitis, chronic inflammation of the intestine, or one of a number of other defects.

The thought, then, is with underweight children to have a complete examination by the family physician and the dentist, because it is difficult for the youngster to grow and develop properly if he has an infection fighting his natural growth and development. Obstruction of the nose and throat by adenoids and tonsils will interfere with body development. If no defects are found, then rich nourishing foods—butter, cream, cereals, bread, sugar, soups, milk, cocoa—should be given.

The second requirement is plenty of sleep, which keeps weight on and gives energy for growth. Sleep is as important as food.

And finally the youngster should be outdoors as much as possible, which develops a good appetite. The youngster will want food and will not only eat, but be able to digest the food eaten.

Parents should study this matter of underweight in their children as they would any other life problem.

In the Middle Ages, chausses were defensive armor for the legs.

Will Present "The Messiah" This Evening

A large attendance is expected at the performance of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," to be given in the First United Church, this evening at 8 o'clock.

The chorus numbers over 120 voices, composed of members from the First United Church and Orpheus Choirs, of this city, under the baton of W. C. Fyfe. Doors will be open at 7:15 p.m., and the performance will commence promptly at 8 o'clock.

Outstanding soloists have been engaged, including Mrs. W. H. Wilson, soprano, and the following Vancouver vocalists: Mrs. F. X. Hodgson, contralto; Leonard Hayman, tenor, and John E. Pacey, bass. Frederick J. Chubb, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, will be the organist.

COMMON SENSE NEEDED TODAY

Capt. John Bowen-Colthurst Addresses Douglas Social Credit Group Here

"The common sense of Canadian businessmen and the tradition of the banks have been the means by which currency-credit has worked—to work out capital-credit needs common sense also," stated Captain John Bowen-Colthurst, of Sooke, in the course of an address to supporters of the Douglas Social Credit movement, meeting in the Union Building last night. Rev. F. W. McKinnon was chairman.

Bank credit, he said, was far easier to take care of than currency, and the need of today was credit and not currency. The only possible solution lies in a totally different method of using credit. Some countries operate on a currency basis, but in Canada, bank credit takes the place of currency and bank deposits increase by borrowers setting up credits. There is no bank at present existing for the financing of capital goods.

BANK BUSINESS

"The banks," Captain Bowen-Colthurst continued, are forced to operate at a profit, therefore, they will not finance production and as such this leads to unemployment. The Government has to borrow from the banks to support the unemployed, and so the vicious circle is completed.

"The grim choice that businessmen have to face today is either enormously increased taxation or a complete change in the social order. Most people are inclined to place politics before economics, and surely it is better to examine the existing conditions than to conceal the economic situation by political slogans. Some of the suggested remedies for the present situattion are: Repudiation, inflation and very heavy taxation. On the other hand, you have what I consider the ideal solution: The creation of confidence, economy and a balanced budget, heavy taxation and social credit."

TAXING PROFITS

The speaker went on to explain that taxation must be on profits and pay with goods or optional to pay in cash, but taxation paid in cash has to be kept within bounds. "A profit at the expense of the community does not last very long," he concluded.

Captain Bowen-Colthurst, at the conclusion of his short address, said that he considered the main concern of the supporters of the Douglast Social Credit movement was to endeavor to create an interest in the movement itself and then follow along with the necessary information and education of the people.

Frank Boucher Makes Proposal To Open Up Game

Veteran Centre of New York Rangers Suggests Semi-Circle Instead of Straight Blue Lines.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (CP). — Through the current beclouding melange of suggestions and experiments for opening up hockey games and de-emphasizing pesky whistle-blowing comes Frankie Boucher today with a proposal that strikes many Gotham critics as the soundest put forward in many a day.

Boucher, who rates the centre ice position on the Canadian Press all-star National League outfit last season, believes substitution of a semi-circle for the straight blue lines would serve the double purpose.

There have been games here recently when whistle-tooting has, in the eyes of the fans, curbed flashy offensive plays to such an extent that only absence in Madison Square Garden of any potent weapon has saved officials from mob assault, so exasperated have the spectators become.

AN OLD COMPLAINT

Most of the plays have been halted through the old complaint of wings outspeeding their pivot carrying puckman, or being unable to stop quick enough when the centre was checked at the blue lines, the wingmen naturally skidding over into the enemy defensive zone.

The starry centre of New York Rangers believes by having a semi-circle, with the apex reaching where the regular blue line now crosses and the ends sweeping down say about fifteen feet nearer the goal cage, forwards would have far less excuse for being offside.

LEAFS DROP FIRST GAME OF CAMPAIGN

Blanked by Detroit Red Wings 3-0 on Sunday—Amerks Beat Hawks

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings may not have the Indian sign on Toronto Leafs. It may have been good hockey that humbled the mighty Leaf machine in the play-offs, last Spring, and crushed a record of eight wins in that many games this season. But it would take a powerful lot of argument to convince, today, the team of Conny Smythe that the Wings aren't bad medicine for them when they want a win most.

JOHNNY SORRELL

Jack Adams' team bobbed up in the villain's role against Leafs again Sunday night, and snapped off a winning streak that started with the first game of the schedule. Whitewashing them, 3-0, Red Wings clocked after seven teams, including themselves, had failed to smother the scoring punch in the sticks of Harvey Jackson and Charlie Conacher, and break down the defence Smythe had set up before George Hainsworth.

HAWKS BEATEN

In their early rush, climaxed on Saturday night with a 4-3 win from St. Louis at Toronto, Leafs have piled up 16 points, half a dozen more than their nearest rivals in the National Hockey League's Canadian section, Montreal Maroons, who bolstered their self-confidence with a 5-2 win over New York Rangers, Saturday. Taking Chicago Black Hawks 2-1, Sunday, New York Americans kept within 2 points of Maroons.

Detroit's win left them still a couple of points behind Boston Bruins, who went into a tie for the American section leadership by defeating Montreal Canadiens 2-0, on Saturday at Montreal.

Detroit beat Toronto by scoring a first-period goal and then playing defensive hockey. Cooney Weiland got the first counter, and when Leafs had five men up the ice seeking their tieing goal in the third, Doug Young and Johnny Sorrell caught them flat-footed to score the other Wing tallies.

In one of the most important baseball trades of the year, Fred Lindstrom, outfielder, and Larry French, pitcher, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, were sent to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Jim Weaver and Guy Bush, pitchers, and Babe Herman, outfielder. The trade was negotiated at the meeting of minor loop heads in Louisville.

DUNCAN, Dec. 3.—A great game of basketball was played at the Agricultural Hall Saturday night when Charleston Club, of Bremerton, won over the Duncan "Union 76" team by one point, 30-29. The game was a close one all the way, the score at half time being 15-14 in favor of the home team. St. Louis Offers $50,000 to Leafs For Left Winger

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3 (AP).—St. Louis Eagles, of the National Hockey League, announced tonight that Toronto Maple Leafs turned down a $50,000 offer for Harvey Jackson, star hockey left winger. Clare Brunton, general business manager for the Eagles, said that a telegram from Redmond Quain, president of the local club, disclosed that the Leafs wanted $100,000 for Jackson.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX J. MORRISON

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health and holder of many other imposing titles, has demonstrated throughout his professional career exceptional powers of observation.

Very often this power shows to advantage when the doctor takes a lesson from me.

The other day he noticed something about the left wrist which I know has escaped the eyes of most golfers.

In placing the left hand on the club the hand should first grasp the shaft firmly in the palm. Then the hand should be moved toward the left so that the wrist bends appreciably.

All of these moves should be performed while the palm of the hand faces the ground. This side bend of the wrist aids wrist action in the swing.

In second place, one lap behind, was the Australian team of George Dempsey and Bobby Thomas. Tied for third place, two laps behind the pacemakers, were the teams of Spencer and Grimm and Zims and Kuester.

REG M'NAMARA MISSES RACE

Veteran Six-Day Bike Rider Forced to Pass Up New York Event

NEWARK, N.J., Dec. 3 (AP).—It took a stomach-ache of the acute variety to do what broken bones of various sizes never could do—keep Reggie McNamara, the "grand old man" of six-day bicycle racing out of the annual Winter whirl at New York's Madison Square Garden.

For the first time since 1913, when McNamara came up from Australia, the aging iron man was missing from the starting line-up in the next race, which started Sunday night. A substitute was hastily enrolled and it was learned McNamara was confined to his home here with acute indigestion.

The race, of course, went on, but it hardly seemed like a Madison Square Garden grind without the gnarled Australian, long a favorite of the galleries. For twenty-one years he never before missed the season's big event.

ITALIAN ATHLETIC CLUB COMING FOR GAME ON SATURDAY

Powerful Quintette Will Take Floor Against Blue Ribbons—Three Antoncich Brothers On Line-Up—Art Chapman Still on Injured List—Two Preliminaries

Riding along in the van of undefeated cage squads, and rated by some critics as the team to beat in the British Columbia play-offs, Victoria's own Blue Ribbons hoopsters, former Dominion monarchs, will face the acid test of their present season's campaign, Saturday evening, when they take the floor at the Victoria High School Gymnasium against the smart Italian Athletic Club quintette from Seattle, in what stands out as one of the most attractive cage fixtures arranged before the holiday season, by the executive of the Victoria and District Basketball League.

League fixtures billed for Friday evening have been cancelled and two of the games will be played as preliminaries to the Ribbons-Italian Athletic Club inter-city tussle. Opening the programme at 7:10 o'clock, will be Kingham-Gillespie and Fernwood Merchants, intermediate "A" squads, while in the second fixture The Colonist will battle West Road men's senior "B" quintette, with the final attraction billed to get under way at 9:15 o'clock.

PLAYED HERE BEFORE

Rated as one of the sweetest hoop squads in the Pacific Northwest, the Italian Athletic Club played here last season under the name of the McKay Giants, and will be remembered for their sparkling performance against the Blue Ribbons. The visitors presented plenty of tough opposition for the smart local aggregation, and, after one of the best exhibitions of the leather handling code seen here for a long time, had to admit defeat by the slim margin of three points.

Schooled by that veteran coach and master mind of the hoop game, Coach Hec Edmundson of the University of Washington, the visitors are well trained in every detail of the cage game and with additional players on their roster this season, have visions of gaining revenge for the setback they received at the hands of the Blue Ribbons, former Canadian champions.

VISITORS' LINE-UP

Pete and Steve Antoncich, lanky tip-off men, will share the centre position on the visiting line-up, with Mark Antoncich, a third member of the Antoncich family, Bill Murphy, Bill Estet and Ray Pesco as forwards. For guard duty the Seattle squad will have George Fredericks, Ed Osling and Tom Werner. Murphy, Estet and Pesco, three clever players, have been added to the playing roster this season, and according to Manager Steve Antoncich, have greatly strengthened the club.

Manager "Barney" Barnwell, genial boss of the Blue Ribbons, is expected to start Doug Peden and "Chuck" Chapman as guards, with Alec McKeachie, Albert Martin and "Porky" Andrews on the front line. Johnny Craig and Norm Florence, a member of The Colonist men's senior "B" quintette, will be in uniform and ready to get into the game at a moment's notice.

Art Chapman, starting centre, is still on the injured list and is not expected to return to the basketball court until after the Christmas holidays.

AFTER SECOND TITLE

Gunning for their second Dominion title, the Ribbons are playing great ball this season. In their first inter-city fixture at the Victoria High School Gymnasium the locals trounced the New Westminster Adanacs, and then later crossed the Gulf waters and defeated the quintette from the other side of the Fraser on their own floor and without the services of Art Chapman.

Saturday evening the former champions will be out to retain their winning streak by defeating the clever Italian Athletic Club quintette from Seattle.

With the good preliminary games listed, basketball fans who make their way to the High School Gymnasium should witness one of the best hoop programmes presented here this season.

There are only a few reserved seats and it is expected that these will be cleared up very quickly, and intending patrons are advised to make early purchases.

Tickets will go on sale tomorrow at Hocking & Forbes, Douglas Street.

BOSTON TRADES WITH CANADIENS

MONTREAL, Dec. 3 (CP).—A hockey deal between Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens, completed today, brings Gordon Savage to Canadiens and sends husky young Jack Portland to Boston. Canadiens parted with Portland for Savage and $7,500 cash, or an estimated total of $10,000.

Art Ross and Frank Patrick, master minds of the Boston team, think they can make a star out of the black-haired young defenceman Canadiens signed on at Collingwood, Ont., last year. Canadiens are reported pleased to get Savage, a canny young defenceman, who showed he knew his way around, when he played for Bruins against Canadiens here, Saturday night, as Bruins won, 2-0.

MAY NOT STAY

Savage, however, may not stay with Canadiens in the National League for long. Canadiens brought Leo Bourgeault up from Quebec Beavers of the Canadian-American League, Saturday, and the chunky little veteran added a lot of starch and pep to the Canadiens defence. Though his future fate has not yet been decided, Bourgeault may stay with Canadiens and Savage may take his place on the Quebec rearguard.

Canadiens obtained Tommy Fillmore's contract from Bruins last Summer in a deal but Tommy has not shown up here. He is said to be nursing an invalid wife somewhere. Friends and relatives don't know where he is, according to the Canadiens Club.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Twenty Seattle golfers will meet the same number of Victoria players, this afternoon, at the Oak Bay links. The competition is for the International Cup, which, at present, is held by the Americans.

A futile effort was made by the home club to postpone the match. A combination of unforeseen circumstances prevented it. A wireless telegram was dispatched, yesterday, telling of the snowfall here and of the consequent condition of the links. It did not reach the party for which it was intended in time to prevent the team leaving. And so the strangers, heartily welcome, despite the fact that today's play must take place under anything but favorable circumstances, filed off the boat, last night, and registered at the Empress Hotel.

The Victoria and Vancouver Rugby teams will meet, today, at the Royal Athletic Park. It is the second of the series for the McKechnie Cup, the first having been won by the Islanders, after a hard fight, on their rivals' grounds. The match today is expected to prove one of the finest exhibitions Victorians have had the opportunity of witnessing for many a long month.

* * *

The tables were reversed, yesterday afternoon. Sharpe defeated his most formidable rival, Bruce Stirling, in the Empress Athletic Club's second mile race. It took place at Beacon Hill, there were several entries and the finish was one of the closest seen here for some months. But a couple of feet separated Stirling and Sharpe as they sprinted the last hundred yards to the wire.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Unbelievable Finger Strength—Gregory Paradise, Canadian strong man, who now lives in Nashua, New Hampshire, performs many unbelievable feats of strength and has won several international physical culture contests. But I think the most unusual of his accomplishments is that of chinning himself in perfect style from a dead hang by the middle finger of his right hand. Most people find it quite difficult to chin themselves using both hands and arms.

TORONTO AND DETROIT MARKSMEN SHOWING WAY

Jackson, Sorrell Setting Pace in National League

Former Out in Front of Canadian Section by Two-Point Margin Over Teammate, Charlie Conacher—Sorrell Has Same Lead Over Two of His Mates

MONTREAL, Dec. 3 (CP).—While Toronto Maple Leafs' winning streak has finally been snapped, the dominance of the Leafs' wingmen in the National Hockey League's scoring records continued unabated the weekly statistics, issued tonight, showed. The four goals scored by Toronto in defeating St. Louis, at Toronto, Saturday night, further strengthened the positions of Harvey Jackson and Charlie Conacher at the top of the whole league.

EARL ROBINSON

Jackson held first place, with ten goals, four assists and fourteen points, two more than Conacher, who has five goals and seven assists.

New York Americans' four-game winning streak was reflected in the advance of Dave "Sweeney" Schriner, Calgary, to a tie for third place with Earl Robinson, of Maroons, in the Canadian Section, each with seven points.

Detroit has a solid hold of top position in the American Section. Red Wings, who have scored twenty-six goals in nine games, lead off with Johnny Sorrell, followed by Cooney Weiland and Larry Aurie, tied, with nine points, and Ebbie Goodfellow, highest-scoring defenceman in the league, todate, with eight points.

Red Horner, rugged Toronto defenceman, held his leadership in penalties, with thirty-three minutes, followed by Goodfellow, with twenty-two. Marty Barry, Boston, and Baldy Northcott, Maroons, each with twenty-four, are next.

To Make Plans For Christmas Day Swim Here

FOURTEEN years ago, Victoria swimmers plunged into the waters of the Gorge to participate in the first Christmas Day swim ever held in Canada, little thinking perhaps that they were laying the plans for what was destined to become an annual event. In more recent years, the race has been held in the waters of the Inner Harbor, the picturesque entrance to the Capital City of British Columbia. Plans for this year's event will be discussed Friday evening, according to Captain D. M. Harbord, donor of the challenge trophy, competed for annually. The swim is staged by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, and attracts considerable attention.

Swimming stars from the Y.M.C.A., Pacific and Victoria Amateur Swimming Clubs will be seen in action at the Crystal Garden Pool, Monday evening, at the first swimming gala of the present season, to be staged by the Vancouver Island Swimming League. The event will commence at 8 o'clock.

The meet is being staged primarily for the purpose of providing competitive training for the city's leading mermaids and mermen to groom them for future inter-city galas.

Final details in connection with the gala will be completed at a meeting of the Vancouver Island Swimming League, to be held at the Crystal Garden, Friday evening, with Capt. D. M. Harbord, president, in the chair.

Stocks and Bonds for Your Portfolio:

FOR 24 YEARS BRITISH AND CANADIAN GOVERNMENT BONDS DROPPED IN VALUE:

There was a loss of 40% in dollar value and the remainder would purchase one-third the quantity of merchandise.

"INVESTORS MAY HAVE BOTH AN OPPORTUNITY AND A DUTY," SAYS "SATURDAY NIGHT"

We Are Fully Equipped to Handle the Following Situation:

SATURDAY NIGHT, Toronto, Nov. 24, 1934: "In fact stock prices would appear to have nowhere to go but up, either as the result of business improvement or further inflation. And further inflation seems inevitable." "Investors therefore are confronted at the present time with both an opportunity and a duty." "An opportunity to benefit by the coming rise of stock and commodity prices and the duty of protecting themselves against the coming decline in the purchasing power of money."

FINANCIAL WORLD, N.Y., Nov. 14: "The entire aspect of the situation appears to be inflationary in the extreme."

WALL STREET JOURNAL, Nov. 19: "Inflation is now inescapable—deposits, cash, high-grade bonds and such like probably will lose two-thirds of their present purchasing power."

FRED HANSSEN—FINANCIAL WORLD, Nov. 21: "Can inflation be avoided?" "So eminent a monetary authority as Prof. Kemmerer has written me that in his opinion it is politically impossible to avoid inflation."

PROF. KEMMERER Addressing the Investment Bankers' Association in Convention: "The cautious investor should use his money for the purchase of durable commodities, real estate and stocks. Carefully chosen common stocks now, as an investment category are preferable to bonds and well distributed second and third-grade bonds are preferable to first-grade bonds."

WALL STREET JOURNAL, Nov. 22: "Idle capital is accumulating in all lands."

BARRONS, Nov. 26. "Credit inflation starting." "Last week the reserves of member banks rose to the highest level in history due largely to new gold imports and Treasury spending."

DEAN LANGMUIR, INC.: "The significance of inflation, from the standpoint of the investor simply lies in the fact that it causes a decline in the value of the dollar." "Failure to have a carefully thought-out programme ready to meet inflation may entail disastrous losses."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, Oct. 10: "The President replied that the Government in recent months had been studying, not methods of raising prices, but means to keep them from 'going through the roof.'"

FINANCIAL WORLD, N.Y., Nov. 21: "The virus is present not only here but practically throughout the World." "Thus the Investor who in times past could look outside his own Country when threatened by inflation has no such opportunity in the present instance."

IT MIGHT BE ADVISABLE TO TAKE NOTICE OF THE ABOVE AND PLACE SOME CAPITAL IN COMMON STOCKS

Your Bond Dealer should employ Investment Counsellors to be on guard, in your interests, from the time you buy until the time you sell.

WE HAVE MADE SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT

How Are We Going to Select the Stocks:

Out of thousands of stocks listed, the cream of these number 142, selected by independent investment counsel. This list is still unwieldy. WHAT WE NEED ARE THE MOST PROMISING STOCKS not merely promising stocks.

Common sense tells us that we must make a division of the stocks into Industrial Groups. No company is as likely to prosper when its industry is confronted by economic problems as when its industry is booming. No company can do as well "swimming against the current" as when the current is helping.

The Place to Look for Promising Stocks Is in Promising Industries:

In 1933 the best industry appreciated 248.4%—the worst stock in that industry 102.8%. The best stock in the worst industry depreciated 3.8%.

One Stock Will Not Represent an Industry: Twelve industries showed marked appreciation in 1933 and yet seven of the leaders in those industries showed actual losses. Not one of the leaders did as well as its industry.

WHY NOT BUY INDUSTRIES:

This eliminates all risk and stock buying becomes an investment. YOU CAN DO THIS and know that Investment counsel is retained to select and revise continuously the investment in individual stocks. Brokerage charges are reduced very materially. Your task of selection and inside knowledge of condition of Companies during the time you are holding the stocks is automatically done away with.

YOUR MONEY IS WORKING VIGOROUSLY FOR YOU ALL THE TIME

as you can change from one industry to another as they in turn come to the front. (Example: Automobile shares should be bought in November and sold in June.) It saves time by keeping out of Slow moving industries. You can change from groups representing consumers' goods to those representing capital goods. You can buy and sell at the market. Your newspapers report which groups are being pushed by the Stock Exchanges. It is easier to be right in buying by groups than it is by buying by Companies.

If Inflation Is Coming You Can Buy Into Those Groups That Will Benefit by Inflation

ROBINSON CRUSOE and his OLD-FASHIONED TRUSTEE

IN Daniel Defoe's immortal story, Robinson Crusoe tells how, before departing on the voyage that was to maroon him for twenty-eight years on an island, he had left £200 in trust with the widow of a sea captain friend. Of his subsequent return he relates:

"When I came to England, I was as perfect a stranger to all the world as if I had never been known there. My benefactor and faithful steward, whom I had left my money in trust with, was alive, but had had great misfortunes in the world; was become a widow the second time, and very low in the world. I went down afterwards into Yorkshire; but my father was dead, and my mother and all the family extinct, except that I found two sisters; and as I had been long ago given over for dead, there had been no provision made for me; so that, in a word, I found nothing to relieve or assist me, and that the little money I had would not do much for me as to settling in the world."

The Trust Company as Executor and Trustee was, of course, unknown in the days of Robinson Crusoe. Had there been such an institution the financial difficulties in which he found himself involved upon returning home might have been avoided. Nowadays a person may be away from home for years and yet be sure that his affairs will be efficiently managed if left in the hands of The Royal Trust Company.

KRAZY KAT . . . . . By Herriman

THE TUTTS . . . By Crawford Young

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"OUR COUNTRY, RIGHT OR WRONG"

It would be difficult to find a more classic illustration of the patriotic idea than this famous expression, whose origin is quite in keeping with its nationalistic spirit.

As is the case with so many great lines, its occasion was an accident. Its utterance, however, already remembered for over a century, bids fair to live on as long as lives the United States.

We owe the words to Stephen Decatur, distinguished officer of the American navy.

In 1815, at a banquet given in his honor at Norfolk, Va., Stephen Decatur was called upon for a toast, and he responded:

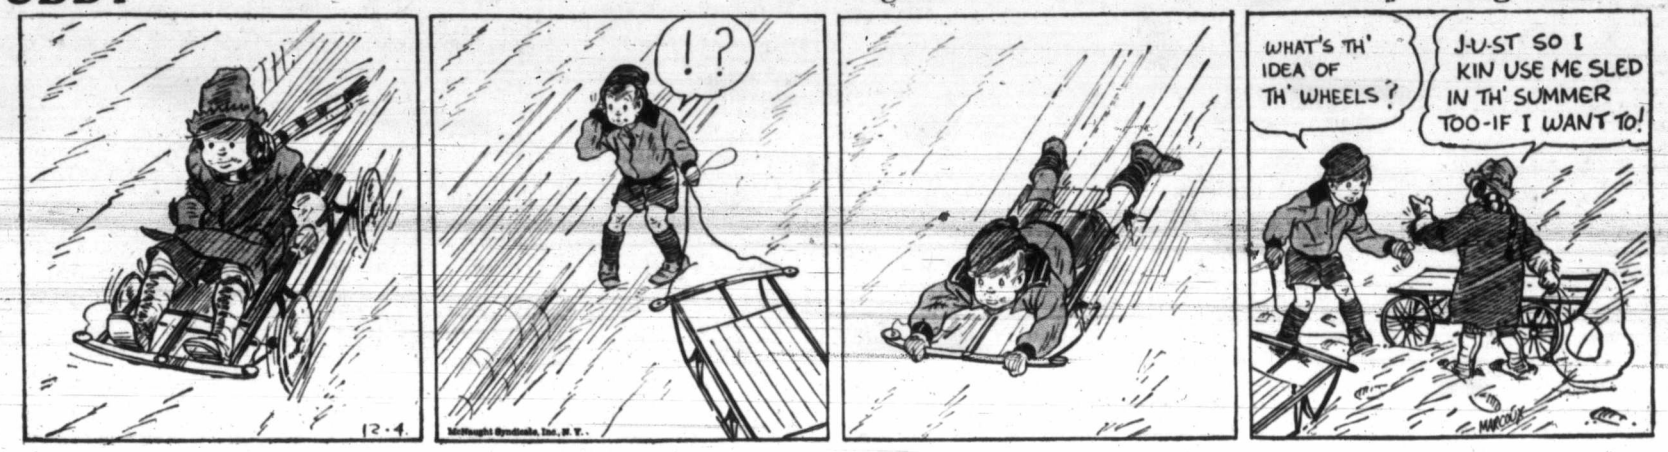

"Our country: in her intercourse with foreign nations, may she be ever right; but our country, right or wrong."

It is decidedly difficult to assess all the exact qualifications of the individual who advertises: "A1 trombonist wants job now. Absolutely cut or else. No Ham. Plenty name and recording band experience. Young. No weed or booze hound. Read anything. Nice range. Modern take-off. Sweet tone. Fake. Featured sweet singer. Panics lay off. Distance no object if job is good."

Repairs were being carried out on the roof of the asylum by a local builder, who had asked for an inmate to assist him.

All went well until lunch time, when the builder's assistant clutched him round the neck and, with a terrible laugh, said, "Come on, let's jump off."

The builder was frightened almost out of his life, but suddenly he had an inspiration.

"Oh, rats!" he replied. "Anybody could do that. Come down and let's jump up."

WHEAT PRICES LITTLE CHANGED

Futures Open Strongly at Winnipeg but Values Drop Steadily Until Close

WINNIPEG, Dec. 3 (CP).—With a broad export demand for Canadian wheat still lacking, a strong opening was not followed up on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, today. Wheat futures prices went into a slow decline after starting 5-8c higher, and closed 1-8c to 1-4c lower.

Sale of 500,000 bushels of low-grade wheat to the United States was the only week-end export business reported. December closed at 78 1-2c, May at 82 3-4c and July 83 3-8c.

Liverpool closed 1 1-8d higher, but values in the South American Exchange, reacting from earlier 1c advances, tumbled to levels 1-2c under the previous close.

World wheat shipments last week totaled 10,000,000 bushels, of which North America exported 4,238,000 bushels.

That Body of Yours
(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

REST IS THE CURE FOR TUBERCULOSIS

I was visiting an ex-heavyweight amateur boxing champion who was a patient in a tuberculosis hospital. He looked so well that I told him he didn't look like a T.B.

"Well," he said, "I am one all right. I'm lying on my back for a year, then sitting up for six months, then up and around the grounds for another six months and then home."

He was not only a good fighter or boxer, but he loved to fight, and yet he was willing to remain absolutely quiet for two years in order to get well.

"You know," he said, "the doctors here have given me a thorough examination and explained why it would take so long for my lungs to heal. When the infection gets into the lung tissues they are so soft that cheesy masses of dead tissue called tubercles soon form. Around this lump or mass the body forms some cells to wall it off from the rest of the lung tissue. However, the poison in these lumps or tubercles may be so powerful that they break down this wall that the body has built, and so the disease spreads. And the thing that makes the disease spread is using my lungs too much by moving around. If I don't move around and don't have to breathe too deeply, the lung tissue gets a chance to rest and the little protecting wall of cells around the tubercle gets strong and hard, just like the scar from a wound or cut. So you can just bet your life I'm going to be the quiet boy and get well."

The formation of this scar tissue is very slow and gradual. Someone has likened the formation of scar tissue to the ice on a pond which, while forming, is unsafe at first, but gradually becomes strong enough for one to walk on it.

It is rest that allows the protecting scar tissue to form slowly yet surely.

When rest by simply lying down is not sufficient to allow the protecting wall to form, then other means of resting the lung—cutting the nerve that moves the lung, injecting air into the pleural cavity in which the lung lies—may be used.

However, for the great majority of patients, simply resting for a long period brings about the cure.

A "Gentleman." — Mr. Registrar Friend at Clerkenwell County Court said yesterday to a Metropolitan Water Board solicitor: I see you describe the defendant as a gentleman —so far as I can see, that usually means the man has no money.

MINISTERS ARE CHURCH GUESTS

Ministerial Association Entertained at Luncheon at City Temple

As an expression of appreciation for the assistance given the institution and its new minister, Rev. Dr. W. J. Thompson, the board of management, the Ladies' League and the Ladies' Aid of the Victoria City Temple entertained the members of the Victoria Ministerial Association at luncheon, at the City Temple, yesterday.

The gathering was an exceptionally happy one, and typified the good will and the Christian relationship between the older churches and the new, and firmly cemented the bonds of friendship existing between the ministers of the various denominations that make up Victoria's church family.

ADDRESSES GIVEN

During the luncheon, which followed the business session of the association, short addresses were given by G. A. A. Hebden, B. J. Gadsden and Dr. Thompson, of the City Temple. The luncheon was unique, because it was the first time on record that the association, as a body, had been entertained by one of its member churches.

The business meeting, which commenced at 10 o'clock at the temple, was under the chairmanship of Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry, of Fairfield United Church. The members listened to an informal talk by Rev. W. R. Brown on conditions in the Irish Free State.

ARRANGE SPEAKER

It was announced that at the next meeting of the association the speaker would be Rev. J. D. Hobden, of Vancouver, director of the John Howard Association. He is to speak on welfare work among prisoners.

During the Week of Prayer, a meeting of all churches will be held at the First Baptist Church on January 9. The services will commence at 8 o'clock in the evening, and Rev. Dr. W. J. Thompson will be the preacher.

Students' Recital Given Last Night

A students' recital was given in the New Thought Temple, Saturday night, by pupils of Miss Gladys Shrapnel. A well-arranged programme of pianoforte, violin, 'cello and orchestral numbers were rendered.

Among the composers interpreted were Tschaikowsky, Kriesler, Mendelssohn, Schubert and Sitt. In addition to solo work, there were trios and quartettes. The orchestra played "Awake, My Soul," the "Marseillaise" and "St. Patrick's Day."

The artists were Miss Helen Lawson, Dudley Crawford, J. Crawford, Joyce Crawford, Miss Lenore Crawford, Miss Doris Fallows, Miss Doris LePage, Miss Kathleen Fallows and Miss Shrapnel.

A collection was taken in aid of the local branch of the Anti-Vivisection Society.

SAYS EXPORTERS AND IMPORTERS OPTIMISTIC

Since the settlement of the Pacific Coast longshoremen's strike, exporters and importers of California have enjoyed better conditions, and are now optimistic about the future, O. J. Gallagher, San Francisco exporter, said, at the Empress Hotel, Saturday night.

Mr. Gallagher arrived in Victoria yesterday, and plans to holiday here for the next few days.

Killed in Crash Of Towed Glider

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP).—Warren E. Eaton, of Norwich, N.Y., president of the Soaring Society of America, was killed instantly, here, Saturday, in a glider crash. The accident occurred while Eaton and Pilot Harold Bowen, also of Norwich, were being towed in two gliders over the city by a plane.

HITLER TAKES HONOR VON HINDENBURG HELD

BERLIN, Dec. 3 (CP-Havas). — Chancellor Adolf Hitler has accepted the honorary presidency of the eleventh Olympiad, scheduled to take place in Berlin, 1936. He replaces the late Marshal Paul von Hindenburg in this office.

Virginia Vane Says:

CURING THE SENTIMENTAL MALE

Dear Virginia Vane: After six years of married life, during which I have been very happy, a situation has arisen which I find it impossible to combat. Quite suddenly another woman has appeared on the scene—a former fiancee of my husband's, who has just discarded a husband and is now making an intensive campaign to attract mine.

She pulls heart-rending scenes, writes my husband notes, phones him and cries on his shoulder at every opportunity. My husband is terribly cut up about it. He has been very frank about the whole affair with me, but he believes firmly that it is his duty to stick by this girl, see that she makes new friends, and not let her go until she is well-established with a new crowd. He sees her constantly.

At first I was hurt, then showed my resentment, and have now promised not to mention the subject again, but it is not so easy to keep a stiff upper lip and let things go on, while you feel the world slipping from beneath your feet. Am I wrong, or is my husband just a plain sap?

I know that I am the only woman in the world for him—that he loves me far more than he loves anybody else, and that if he went to this girl for good, he would be wretched.—"Elizabeth."

The "sap" diagnosis would seem to be correct, for your husband is not a wicked two-timer at heart, but a susceptible male who is flattered and touched by the tearful appeals to his chivalry. And so long as the determined ex-fiancee sticks to her pose of martyr, just so long will the hypnotized male continue to offer protection and good honest manly affection.

It's a nice impulse on the husband's part—but when the impulse leads to a fixed habit, it begins to appear that the man in the case is made of weak material. And that's when a determined wife must step in and arrange to protect her marriage.

Understand this, Elizabeth—that the poor man doesn't really believe he's hurting you at all. He confidently assumes that you know he loves you and that his friendship with his old girl is founded on pity. He's got everything all nicely fixed in his mind, and so cannot see for a minute that his relationship with the ex-fiancee might be dangerous to his marriage and your happiness.

It is necessary sometimes to give this sort of placid assurance a good swift jolt. The reasonable attitude, having failed—the resentment having been met with more resentment—why not try a little subterfuge, to show the good-hearted fellow that he can't make a wife and an ex-fiancee happy at the same time?

Tell him, first of all, that he is comforting his old flame at the cost of your happiness; that in his effort to be Sir Galahad to one lady he is forgetting to play Derby to his Joan. And if he doesn't see the light of day when you've finished with that argument, then remind him that you threw over a number of beaus in your time—and that if necessary you will recall at least one of them for the purpose of comforting him.

Tell him that his lady who has made a mess of her life is no worse off than a dozen other women in his neighborhood who have made similar mistakes but who unfortunately haven't his telephone number. Ask him whether he believes that a married man's friendship can usher any woman into a new crowd, with just the right social grace.

Remind him, too, that this poor, frail, defenceless creature, whose cause he is championing, has proved herself a whiner and a coward by falling back on the affection of an old beau who ought to be looking after his wife and home where, goodness knows, there should be daily problems enough.

Try to take all the glamor out of the situation. Laugh off the romantic chivalrous stuff—and indicate plainly that if you're to sit by and watch your husband make a fool of himself, you're going to invite some one in to watch with you.

Your lord and master may think you're a suspicious and jealous woman. He may reproach you bitterly for being so cheap as to consider the attentions of other men necessary to take your mind off the situation. But he won't stand for the other men—and in his anxiety to prevent your carrying out your threats, he will lose some interest in the absorbing problem of how to keep his ex-fiancee happy and popular.

When a sentimental male loses his sense of proportion, it's up to a sensible wife to help him get it back, even though she has to use methods which may seem unfair at the time.

IMPRESSING FATHER

Heart-Broken: I wish I could do something or say something which would bring you immediate help. But because of your youth and because of your dependence on father, you cannot hope to solve your problem with a few magic words.

Obviously you and mother have used all the arguments to convince him that you should be allowed some liberty and have met with failure. You cannot go on disobeying the head of the house without causing constant strife and worry for your mother.

You can, however, begin now to work toward financial independence and to show your father that you are fully determined to be a wage-earning, self-respecting human being who has the right to live her own life and to enjoy normal pleasures. Perhaps he will be more impressed with your constructive effort to be a worker than he would ever have been by your arguments in favor of a good time. Try it and see.

What Today Means

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a.m., from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m. and from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m., from 4:45 to 6:45 p.m. and from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m.

Preliminary to starting any social or business activities on this date, it might prove to be good judgment to check up and see if you have overlooked having made a previous appointment. Influences may tend to make some people absent-minded, so it might pay to keep mentally alert. It is likely to require a lot of steady "plugging" to accomplish the things you wish to do, whether they are of a business or social nature. Extremes are liable to exist in monetary affairs—money may be either very plentiful or hard to obtain. The wise man and woman will guard against any appearance of being overbearing by suppressing any display of egotism, for such an attitude will possibly result in a humiliating rebuke. Your mental attitude possibly will have an important bearing on the state of your physical being on this December 4, so avoid allowing yourself to indulge in fits of temper, or to become agitated over trivial matters. Married and engaged couples, as well as those engaged in the quest of love, should stick to the straight and narrow path of rectitude if they wish to avoid some pitfalls which may prove difficult to get out of.

If a woman and December 4 is your birthday, conditions relating to your personal affairs are apt to terminate favorably. You are probably very susceptible to receiving inspirations that should lead to splendid accomplishments in either some form of artistic or musical achievement. Dexterity with your hands will perhaps be the means of very lucrative employment. Writing and educational work may be mediums through which recognition might be gained. Married life should have a great deal to offer you.

The child born on December 4 usually, when it arrives at high school age, displays creative ability, which is likely to attract attention and secure it advantages over the average child. Constructive criticism will be readily accepted, but critical remarks are likely to be resented.

If a man and December 4 is your natal day, if you do not allow your romantic and poetic imagination to cause you to lose sight of the practical side of life, it should prove an advantage instead of a disadvantage. Music, art, literature and the stage are among some of the lines of activity, in which you might excel. Married life should have many advantages for you.

At a country fete a conjurer was performing, the old trick of producing eggs from a pocket handkerchief when he remarked to a little boy in fun: "Say, my boy, your mother can't get eggs without hens, can she?"

"Of course she can," replied the boy.

"How is that?" asked the conjurer.

"Why, she keeps ducks," replied the boy.
